SMALL GRASPS AT STRAW TO SAVE PRIMARY

Signs Show April Vote on Rocks.

BY PARKE BROWN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—The Illinois presidential preference primary—the popular vote within parties upon candidates for presidential nomination hitherto set for April 10—on the rocks.

The only thing that could save it with certainty would be a decision by the state supreme court sustaining the 1917 primary statute, which has been held unconstitutional in the circuit court of Cook county on the same grounds raised in another case pending before the high tribunal.

Gov. Len Small believes he has another chance to preserve the April vote. He hopes to win back again the support of Mayor William Hale Thompson, who is coming here tomorrow. But those who know best say that hope is futile.

Every sign, on this first day of the second week of the special session of the general assembly, points to the complete collapse of spring dates from the election calendar.

Assembly Marks Time.
Apparently without a yawn, legislators believe the primary for nominations for state, county and city offices will be held in September, delegates to the national or presidential conventions to be selected by caucus or county state conventions convened by the assembly and state legislatures now in existence.

In other words, George E. Brennan, Democratic national committeeman, who is nearly within grasp, though there by the decision of the Thompson-Crowe Chicago organization is to hold his insistence upon a fall primary for official nominations.

Both houses of the assembly marked this all day on the matter of the primary. The scene of action was the governor's office on the floor below their meeting halls. There the situation took definite form early in the day.

Yes Shipping Away.
Mr. Brennan kept his morning appointment and told the governor that he insists upon a fall primary for candidates for office. His formal notice to this effect raised, but did not settle, the question of whether Small and other advocates of the spring primary would muster the 102 votes in the house of representatives necessary for an emergency bill.

What was believed to be a complete and final answer to that question came when Mr. Brennan departed and Senator E. Galpin and B. W. Snow, as change bearers from the Thompson-Crowe combination, were ushered in.

They told the governor that their organization, like Mr. Brennan's, favors fall nominations. To the governor this news of Democratic and Republican alliance meant that it would be impossible to normal the two-thirds vote of 102 to the house.

Meeting Fruitless?
To the governor also, it was said, the formal verification of news reports of the Thompson-Crowe attitude was a shock. Last Friday in Chicago he conferred with Mayor Thompson and Galpin. There was an agreement to settle in support of the governor's program.

For that reason, it is said, Small believes there will be a different face put in the situation after he has a chance to talk with Thompson. The Chicago state is coming down for the governor's official reception to the members of the legislature and their families and friends tomorrow, but he will not arrive until evening, and that means another day of marking time in the assembly. The well informed are positive in their assertions that a meeting between Small and Thompson will not solve the situation.

Move Is Sidetracked?
Persistent rumors that the supreme court will hand down a decision upon the case of Kell vs. Kramer, the primary test case, begun by Attorney General Carlstrom, continue to come from several sources. Partly because of them, as well as because a decision at this time would go far in helping to straighten out the legal tangle, the movement for a legislative plea for the decision, launched last week by Senator Thomas J. Courtney, is gaining strength.

The house unanimously passed a resolution presented by Representative Howard P. Cautie, asking the court for a decision. It went over the senate, where, apparently, because the new machine wanted to stop the first term from setting a precedent on page 4, column 1.

'BAR HIM,' URGES COMMITTEE IN SENATE REPORT

Friends and Foes in Bitter Debate.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Plan action barring Frank L. Smith from the seat to which Illinois voters elected him is scheduled in the senate tomorrow.

For four hours the question of his right to a seat was debated today and a vote will be reached tomorrow after two or three additional speeches.

That there is not the slightest doubt of the outcome was manifest in comments during the discussion by both supporters and opponents of the Illinoisan.

"Guillotine Is Greased."

"The guillotine is greased for use," remarked Senator Moses (Rep., N. H.), who will vote against the resolution declaring the Smith seat vacant. "Why delay the execution?"

The resolution which will be adopted by the senate recites that the sum of $455,752 was expended directly or indirectly in behalf of the Smith candidacy in the Republican primary in Illinois, that of this amount $303,000 was contributed by officials of public service corporations and that as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission Smith violated an Illinois statute prohibiting a member of that body from accepting money from such a source.

The Reed Resolution.

"Resolved, That the acceptance and expenditure of the various sums of money aforesaid," the resolution concludes, "in behalf of the candidacy of the said Frank L. Smith is contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the dignity and honor of the senate, dangerous to the perpetuity of free government, and tainted with fraud and corruption the credentials for a seat in the senate presented by the said Frank L. Smith, and be it further

"Resolved, That the said Frank L. Smith is not entitled to take the oath of office and is not entitled to membership in the senate of the United States, and that a vacancy exists in the representation of the state of Illinois in the United States senate."

The resolution was offered by Senator James A. Reed (Dem., Mo.), chairman of the special campaign fund investigating committee, as part of the report of the committee.

Refused to Answer Questions.

The committee report contained no discussion of legal questions involved merely reciting the facts relative to the appearance of Mr. Smith ten days ago and his refusal to submit evidence on the ground that the senate was conducting an unconstitutional procedure in refusing to permit him to take the oath before inquiring into his qualifications.

Mr. Reed also referred to the testimony of Samuel Insull and Daniel J. Schuyler Jr., his attorney, in which facts regarding the Insull contributions which they refused to disclose previously were made known.

It was stated that a supplemental report would be filed later in the Insull case, in which time it is expected the committee will recommend that the proposed contempt proceedings against Insull and Schuyler be abandoned.

Senator King (Dem., Utah), one of the members of the Reed committee, informed the senate that he did not subscribe to the recommendation for the adoption of the resolution as presented by Senator Reed.

Deneen Opens Debate.
Senator Deneen (Rep., Ill.) started the debate with an address in which he asserted that the move to expel Mr. Smith from the senate by a majority vote before he has become a member is "an indirect, an improper and an unprecedented procedure."

Senator Reed (Dem., Mo.) made no speech, but declared his opposition to the seating of Mr. Smith in an exchange of questions with Senator Deneen and Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.), who also championed the Smith cause.

Sensors Bingham (Rep., Conn.) and Hale (Rep., Me.) supported the Smith side of the argument and Senators George (Dem., Ga.) and McKellic (Dem., Tenn.) contended that it is the senate's duty to exclude the Illinoisan.

Wash Delays Vote.

Final action was planned for today, but Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho) asked for additional time to study the record in the case. Senator Borah later on indicated his willingness to vote today, but Senator Walsh (Dem., Mont.) said he wished to address the senate tomorrow.

NEED BILLION TO COMMAND SEAS, COMMITTEE TOLD

Our $740,000,000 Plan Leaves U. S. Second.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—(Special.)—A billion dollars, rather than the $740,000,000 contemplated in the present naval construction program, will have to be expended in strengthening the United States navy if this government is to have an adequate fleet, strong enough to command the seas, Admiral Charles F. Hughes told the house naval committee today.

The admiral testified that the $740,000,000 program advanced by the President and Secretary Wilson will give this country a "reasonable degree of security," but will not "guarantee the safety of the nation on the seas."

Admiral Hughes defined an adequate fleet as one which would be large enough to give this country an overwhelming superiority over any other sea power—in fact, command of the seas.

Would Have Chance. "A reasonable navy," Admiral Hughes explained, "is one which would give this country a fair chance of winning in case of a national emergency. An adequate navy would guarantee this government a sure chance of victory on the seas. With a reasonable navy, we would not have command of the seas; we would simply have a fleet almost equal to the best any other power maintains. One would be better."

Admiral Hughes said that apparently the achievement of parity with Great Britain was the underlying idea in the minds of the navy high command: "when it drew up the bill now before the committee. The idea of the navy, he said, has always been to have a 'fleet second to none.'"

In order to give this country an adequate fleet, Admiral Hughes said it would be necessary to add at least 25 per cent more ships to the present program, which calls for a completion within the next eight years of 25 cruisers, 35 submarines, nine destroyers and five aircraft carriers.

Questions 'Gag Rule.' Admiral Hughes did not ask the committee to add more ships to the present program, but simply outlined the situation as he saw it. In response to one question, he said he felt that the present program will be the best one to enact into legislation at this time. Its completion, he said, would "leave us behind one power."

While the Hughes testimony on naval security aroused the most interest, it was but one of the highlights of an unusually fruitful session. Other features included the questioning of witnesses by Representative Britten (Rep.-Ill.) to see if they had been "gagged" by the navy high command prior to their appearance before the committee.

Admiral Hughes aroused the attention of the committee with his first question: that the United States has not as good, and just as safe, submarines as any other power. He produced figures disclosing that during the last ten years Great Britain has had six submarine accidents with a death list of 202, Japan seven accidents with a mortality of 140 men, and the United States seven accidents and 18 deaths.

FARE CRUISER PROGRAM (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) LONDON, Jan. 17.—The British government has decided on further reductions in its naval building program. Another cruiser is to be abandoned, which makes a total of three since the Geneva naval conference, showing a saving in the estimate of 15,500,000 (£15,500,000).

Six ships were to have been built, but the cabinet now has decided that only three will be begun. The projected two year program thus is delayed.

Three 8,000 ton cruisers will be held down—one in the present financial year and two in 1928 and 1929—instead of four 8,000 ton cruisers and two 10,000 ton cruisers, for which provision was made in the construction program for the fiscal years 1927-28 and 1928-29.

The financial commitments, amounting to £10,000,000 ($50,000,000), thus are cut down to £4,500,000 ($22,500,000). It is understood the program of destroyers and submarines will be continued—nine destroyers and six submarines will be included in next year's program. The forthcoming army estimates will also show a saving of £1,000,000 ($5,000,000).

COPS HUNTING CORPSE PICK UP 22 LIVE ONES

Shot Exposes Loop Class of Race Students.

"There's been a man shot and killed in room 500 at the Garrick Theater building."

And so it was. Deputy Police Commissioner O'Connor, Chief of Detectives Michael Grady, three squad cars full of detectives and two patrol wagons dashed from the detective bureau and across the loop at breakneck speed.

Crash went the doors of room 500 and the crowd of detectives, panting for breath, shouted in chorus: "Where's the body?"

Find "Dead Man" Talkative. Twenty-two men looked up from sheets which they were studying with great intensity. The sheets were race dope sheets and the men were at the great old pastime of picking a winner. In a corner near the ticker sat Louis Shapiro, nursing the bandaged stump of what had been his index finger.

He was telling a friendly reporter how he shot it off, two hours before. And he was the copper's "dead man."

The place was a race handbook, and the name on the door was Ben Sherman & Co., no trade or profession given; the detectives observed. They learned that Shapiro, who lives at 1803 South Millard avenue, was looking for the joint, and that he had been comparing guns with John Azario, a ballist in one of the county courts.

Gun Fools Him; Finger, Too. "It works fine," said Shapiro of his weapon. "See?" And he pulled the trigger, thinking to hear it click neatly on an empty chamber. A bullet came out to surprise him, and took along the top of his index finger. He went to the Henrotin hospital, had the stump bandaged, and returned to the place.

The police decided to arrest the whole shebang, and rounded them up, out in the corridor. Starting with twenty-four prisoners, the police lost one out in the hall in the big jam. On the street it was worse, with the crowd almost paralyzed by the crowd who had gathered to see the corpse. When the prisoners got inside the patrol wagons the police took another count, and there were only twenty-two.

A man along the curb was spied as the other gambler, but when a blue coat grabbed him he protested violently. "I ain't the guy," and, lacking good proof, the cops departed with the twenty and two.

STATE STREET TROT HARD, BUT LEVIATHAN COMMANDER LIKES IT

Facing the deck of the S. S. Leviathan is somewhat less strenuous than the State street trot to which most Chicagoans are addicted, Commander Herbert Hartley discovered yesterday, on his first visit here. But the skipper doesn't mind. He likes it. "Greatest time I ever had," he declared. "It's marvelous—to be the guest of a city of this size, and to meet all these people."

"Chicago furnishes more of our Leviathan patrons than any other city in the country—did you know that? There's so few people left in Chicago that haven't crossed with me that before I'm through I expect to have carried them all."

On his arrival yesterday Commander Hartley was entertained at breakfast at the Drake by Judge Joseph Drake. He then was escorted to the city hall, where Mayor Thompson extended an official welcome. From there he went to the Sherman hotel to attend the luncheon of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion, at which Fred Stone was also a guest. Then he addressed the Rotarians at their weekly luncheon.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Edward Leight gave a tea for Commander and Mrs. Hartley, and last night they were entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hines, followed by a theater party. A. D. Lasker, former chairman of the shipping board of the United States, was also among their hosts for the day.

This noon Commander Hartley will address the luncheon meeting of the Association of Commerce, and this evening he and Mrs. Hartley will attend a dinner in their honor at the Drake hotel, at which Judge Sabath, Tracy and others will be present.

RESENT ATTACK ON WAUKEGAN'S STUDENT R. O. T. C.

Waukegan, Ill., Jan. 17.—(Special.)—Considerable resentment was developed among the 2,000 students and the faculty of Waukegan Township High school today following distribution of letters among the students attacking military training in the R. O. T. C. The local authorities believe that the letters were prepared by Reds. An investigation is being made.

The letters, addressed to "Students taking military training at Waukegan Township High school" and were signed by the "Students' anti-militarist conference."

The writers of the letters charged that there is military training in schools because rich men of the country are preparing for another war.

HOSPITAL INMATE CONFESSES HE SET FIRES AT CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—(Special.)—John J. Fisher, a Walter Reed hospital patient, confessed to the police tonight that he set two of the series of fires which raged throughout the capital early today.

An irresistible impulse, the man said, led him to start fires at the McDowell grain warehouse at Q street and Eckington place, northeast, and at the Lank Woodwork company at 1341 W street, northwest.

In all there were twenty-four fire alarms in the capital district between midnight, last night, and noon today, and they came so frequently that the entire police department was unable to cope with the calls, making it necessary to call on neighborhood cities. Baltimore, forty miles away, responded promptly, and its fire forces helped fight two of the big blazes, manned fire houses for protective purposes, and, incidentally paid a 24 year-old debt to the capital which helped Baltimore combat its big fire of 1904. Ten companies, an ambulance and several deputies made the long run from Baltimore.

Taking stock of the situation today, Washington officials found that more than thirty firemen had been slightly injured and property losses reached several hundred thousand dollars.

"BAR SMITH," URGES COMMITTEE AS SENATE SPENDS DAY IN BITTER DEBATE

FRIENDS DEFEND, FOES ASSAIL HIS RIGHT TO OATH

Reed (Mo.) vs. Reed (Pa.) in Wrangle.

Senate on the subject and would not be prepared to do so until tomorrow. The liveliest part of the debate occurred when the two Reeds exchanged questions.

PLEADS STATE RIGHTS

"We talk of state rights," said Senator Reed (Pa.). "For a long time, for many decades, the declaration of state rights was the foundation stone in the platform of the Democratic party. You have thrown it to the winds. I put to you as an illustration this well known evasion of the 14th and 15th amendments throughout the primaries in the Democratic south."

"I do not believe that is any of our business. I believe in the rights of those southern states. I believe that the men they elect to represent them should be received here as they come as the ambassadors of those southern states. But you are destroying that principle."

"I always had thought, and I believe my colleagues joined with me, that if those primaries have been there were unconstitutional, it was up to the citizens in your state to correct them and it is beyond our power and beyond the scope of our business. You are destroying that principle."

Reed Questions Reed. The Pennsylvania Reed inquired of the Missouri Reed whether it was the latter's view that the facts relative to campaign funds unearthed by the senatorial committee after the primaries in the spring of 1926 made Smith "incapable of election to the United States senate."

"They did not make him incapable of election to the senate," replied the Missouri Reed, "but they made him improper to sit in the senate because one of the steps by which he secured his election was through the improper method to get on the ticket."

"And that was the senator's view in the spring of 1926, was it not?" inquired the Pennsylvania Reed.

"Yes," said the Missouri Reed, "it was my view and has been the view of almost everybody who knows the facts ever since."

Illinois Thought Differently. "Very good," commented the Pennsylvania Reed. "It seems not to have been the view of some 800,000 citizens of Illinois who constituted a majority of the voters at the general election in the following November."

"Now what significance, if any—and I ask the question in all sincerity to inform myself and others—what significance if any does the senator attach to that general election and to that action of the voters of Illinois? Does he think that their action in November was a complete nullity?"

The Missouri Reed said he would give his opinion and give it plainly. "Does the senator mean to say," said Senator Reed (Mo.), "that if a man by any kind of fraud or corruption can get his name upon a ticket and if thereafter he is elected he is entitled to take his seat, although he never could have been upon the ticket except for that fraud and corruption and that the vote of the people is final and conclusive regardless of any fraud, chicanery or corruption which may have been committed. Does the senator take that position?"

HOLDS FRAUD A BAR

"I hold to the view that whenever any material step which a candidate for office takes in order to secure a seat in this body is a corrupt step materially affecting the result, and the senate is apprised of that corruption, that it is the duty of the senate in the protection of the country to say that kind of fraud and corruption vitiate the election."

"That is my view, and to take any other view is to take the view that if a man can, by bribery, by fraud, by corruption, by any kind of villainy, get his name printed upon a party ticket, so that, although there may be great numbers of people who vote their protest, yet in the general sweep of the election he is carried over with the tide he must thereafter be seated—to take that view is to open

PHILADELPHIA'S TAX LIST WITH BECK'S NAME UPON IT DISAPPEARS

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Pursuing its investigation of the election of Representative James M. Beck (Rep., Pa.), a house committee was told today that a tax list containing Beck's name had been removed from the office of the Philadelphia city assessor.

It precipitated a verbal clash between Beck and Representative Kent, Democrat, Pennsylvania, who is prosecuting the case, which hinges on the contention that Beck was not an inhabitant of Pennsylvania at the time of his election.

the door to every kind of fraud and inquiry. "It is to say to every scoundrel who may be at large, 'All you have to do is to be some means get on a ticket in a state that is largely Democratic or largely Republican and you get by virtue of the very fraud which gave you that position, finally land here, and that there is no power to prevent it.'"

"If that is the case, then the senate is defenseless and rogues may as well begin their nefarious business in the open."

Illinois Knew Situation. Senator Reed (Pa.) inquired whether it was "significant that full knowledge of this so-called fraud was enjoyed by the people of Illinois before the election?"

"I would not attach the slightest importance," replied Senator Reed (Mo.), "to the fact that in a party ridden state a political machine was able to put over a candidate, even though he was covered all over with the leprosy of crime, if when he came here one of the steps that he took was in the teeth of the law, in the teeth of morals, and in violation of the statutes of his own state, which is the case here."

EXCLUDED NEGRO VOTE

"Would the senator extend that to a person who was nominated in a southern state which excluded all Negroes from the right to vote?" queried Senator Reed (Pa.).

"I will extend it," replied Senator Reed (Mo.), "to any state where fraud and corruption and villainy have tainted the election; and I will say this: I have heard a good deal about southern states, and I am not going to go into a discussion of that question; but I will say that there was such a spectacle presented in the senator's own state, where the white people of the state were debauched, as ought to be, by the attention and all his moral rebukes and energies within the confines of his own commonwealth. He need not look beyond."

"My moral rebukes—whatever those articles may be—will be devoted to the election in Pennsylvania when we get to that subject," said Senator Reed (Pa.).

Insists on Answer. "Does the senator consider it to be corrupt and improper to suppress the vote of the entire negro population in each of the southern states?"

"I should like to ask the senator what I think Smith in Illinois," responded Senator Reed (Mo.).

"We have just been answering hypothetical questions," said Senator Reed (Pa.). "And the first time we begin to apply the doctrine to that side of the aisle the senator asks what that has to do with Frank Smith."

"I want to know whether, in the next congress, the senator, if he is here—and I hope he will be—will join with us in applying this principle to men nominated in primaries from which all colored voters are excluded?"

"The senator asks four or five questions and does not wait to be answered," replied Senator Reed (Mo.). "The senator's position now seems to be this: 'It is true that we have here a case of corruption. Our defense is that there was corruption somewhere else; ergo, there being corruption in more than one place, we must admit all.'"

SENATORS WILL RUE IT. Senator Reed (Pa.) said that if the principle in the pending resolution "is established now against the states most of the senators who vote for it will live to rue the day."

"When a man in the course of a colloquy," interrupted Senator Reed (Mo.), "gets to the point of making threats against senators, practically telling them that they are heaping going to be excluded from their states, it rather seems to me we have reached a point where it is useless to proceed any more."

The Pennsylvania Reed inquired of the Missouri Reed if "whether the fraud of which he complains in this Illinois primary was a fraud committed on the people of Illinois which they themselves fully understood before they acted in November, 1926."

"That is the same question that has been asked three times in at least that many different ways," retorted the Missouri Reed. "There was discussion in the state of Illinois. Nevertheless, whether the people of the state of Illinois still continued to vote for this man or not, if this was a substantial step taken by him to gain a seat in this body, the action of the people of Illinois cannot ratify that kind of wrong."

"In other words, it takes more than a vote of the people of a state to wipe out a fraud, to extinguish an inquiry. If that be not true, then this body and this country are powerless to preserve free government."

"The senator seems to think that if a majority of people vote for ratification of any kind of inquiry that purges the act of inquiry and that the people of the United States have no right to protect themselves against men who come here by those methods."

"I have this to say to the senator on this point: A senator who is sent here by the state of Illinois must have been elected by the people of Illinois in accordance with law, and any man who commits frauds in an election taints and destroys any election just as fraud taints and destroys any contract or any act."

Is Any Fraud Claimed? "Is there any fraud claimed in his election?" interposed the Pennsylvania Reed.

"Plenty of fraud in the primary," responded the Missouri Reed, "and no vote thereafter taken by a people can cleanse the act of its fraud and its iniquity if it be an act which contributed to the bringing of the individual here to the senate."

"More than that, there are other states in the Union that have some rights. For when a senator comes here from Illinois he becomes a senator of the United States, and he is as much a senator for each of the forty-eight states as he is for the state that sent him here and his vote binds all of the states."

RIGHTS OF OTHER STATES

"Therefore these other states have the right to say that, no matter what the right may have been in a particular state, if the individual coming here does not come along the road of the law, walking it straight, and coming here without taint upon his office, that they will refuse to allow him to sit here and bind the sovereign people of this republic."

"Any other view than that means that fraud can be done in the moonlight, that corrupt organizations can defeat any chance at their elections, and that every kind of iniquity and every sort of villainy will triumph, provided by some means a majority of votes can be got into a ballot box. That is not good morals—it is not good law. That is not the way to protect the country by protecting itself, and when men stand here as the special pleaders for fraud, as the defenders of iniquity, as the partners of crime, making themselves partners by ratifying a crime, then when they get into that out-of-control frame there is no use carrying on debates with them."

Senator Reed (Pa.) remarked that for the first time since these debates began we have arrived at a concise statement of the law that our adversaries believe to govern this case.

"For the first time," he continued, "they have frankly thrown to the four winds the doctrine that the states have left any rights in this matter, and have taken the position that the voters in the states, with full knowledge of the facts, are nevertheless to be treated like little children subject to our guardianship."

ILLINOIS THE VICTIM

"I do not believe that my distinguished colleague from Missouri has any monopoly in being an opponent of corruption and of fraud and of other villainies of which he has talked to us so often, but I do believe, sir, that he confuses his thought and ours when he claims that because of some supposed corruption in a primary election committed back in the spring of 1926 against the people of Illinois, if you please, for they were the victims of the corruption if it existed."

"They knew all about it; they knew as much about that so-called corruption by the time November brought his election as does the senator from Missouri this minute."

Set Up as Divinity. "They know all about it now, yet he would set himself up as a divinity above the people of Illinois to say that they were so feeble-minded in condoning that, as they appeared to have done in the general election, that although they know Frank Smith better than he does, although they may have reasons for electing Frank Smith that we cannot know, reasons that to them outweigh this irregularity in the primaries many months before, yet nevertheless the state of Illinois is so far gone in subjection to this little group of us who sit here that we can override the judgment of nearly a million voters who cast their votes for Frank Smith."

"A majority of 96 of us stands so supreme in integrity and in intelligence that we can say to the great mass of people in Illinois, 'You are moralless, if you will, or imbeciles, and your judgment deserves no respect.'"

GEORGE ANSWERS REED

Senator George in speaking for the Reed resolution took occasion to reply to the statements by Senator Reed (Pa.) relative to evasion of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments by southern states.

"Whenever any southern state, my own included," said Senator George, "goes beyond the provisions of the constitution we invite an appeal to the courts to determine the question. Why do you undertake to scare the south?"

Senator George said that the material facts in the Smith case have never been denied.

"It seems to me," Senator George said, "that if there ever was a case which called for the exercise of the power of the senate it is the case at the bar. Not only is the amount of money expended excessive but the source of the money and the manner of its payment makes it obligatory upon the senate to declare that Mr. Smith is not entitled to his seat."

Bingham Defends Smith. Senator Bingham in defending Mr. Smith said that no court in Illinois ever has passed upon the question as to whether he violated a state law in accepting contributions from a public utility official while chairman of the Illinois commerce commission.

MAKES LEGAL APPEAL

Senator Deneen did not attempt to deal with the facts relating to the Smith campaign fund, but confined his argument to the legal question.

The issue presented by the state of Illinois and by Senator-elect Frank L. Smith is his right to take the oath of office, before a trial upon any objection to his right to retain his seat in the senate," said Senator Deneen.

"The testimony which the senate has submitted to the people of Illinois in the campaign preceding Mr. Smith's election and was a matter of general discussion, and the people passed upon it."

"Will it be contended that the people of Illinois had not the legal right to elect Mr. Smith United States senator?"

"The senate has no legal power to elect a United States senator for Illinois. Its legal powers are limited to determining whether in fact Mr. Smith was elected United States senator and whether he has the qualifications prescribed in the constitution. The committee on privileges and elections of the senate passed upon the credentials of Senator-elect Smith on March 4, 1927, and reported that the certificate of his election 'is in due and correct form.'"

There is no dispute about the legality of the election or that Mr. Smith has the qualifications prescribed in the federal constitution, which are:

"No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of 30 years and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not when elected be an inhabitant of that state from which he shall be chosen."

POSITION OF ILLINOIS

"The position which the state of Illinois takes is that the United States senate cannot create any additional qualifications for a United States senator or limit further the power of a state to elect him; that neither the senate nor the congress nor the state of Illinois, nor any other state, has prescribed any additional qualifications for United States senator; that the pending motion attempts to add additional qualifications, and by the senate alone."

"But it was urged in the previous debates in this case that the senate has the inherent power of self defense; that otherwise a state might send to the senate an idiot, an insane person, a leper or a man with a contagious incurable disease, a man without moral character, or a criminal. The senate is not without power under the constitution to protect itself in self defense or otherwise."

Senator Philander C. Knox, on Feb. 14, 1907, expressed the law very clearly, as follows:

"That is to all matters affecting a man's moral or mental fitness the states are to be the judges in the first instance, subject, however, to the power of the senate to reverse their judgment by a two-thirds vote of expulsion extends into the period of senatorial service, and such a question can only be made after the senator has taken his seat."

"If to this it is objected that it contemplates admitting a man who may be immediately expelled, I reply that it is hardly proper to adopt a rule of constitutional construction and senatorial action based upon the theory that the states will send criminals or idiots to the senate."

"If, therefore, Mr. Smith took the office as United States senator, and objection were made that he was disqualified, he could be expelled but not until he had the right to be heard as a senator."

RIGHT TO TAKE OATH

"It is sought to establish a new precedent here. What will be the limitations of the power of the senate to deny a man by a majority vote the right to take the oath of office as a senator elect or designate if Mr. Smith is denied the oath of office?"

"Suppose the offense charged were a violation of the Volstead act; suppose it were failing to pay taxes; or suppose the objection were directed to the question of politics, or religion, or race, or occupation, or social status of the senator elect or designate. What are to be the limitations set to the power of the United States senate by a mere majority vote to deny a sovereign state the right to elect its own United States senator?"

"Suppose a political party or a coalition of minorities in the senate should refuse to admit from a state a senator who had been elected by less than a majority of its electors on the theory that the election did not represent the views of the state or that the state tolerated or approved minority government. I ask those who support the motion to refuse the oath of office to Mr. Smith to define the limitations of the power they seek to have exerted in his case."

"The procedure sought here is in fact to expel Mr. Smith from the senate by a majority vote before he has become a member of this body. This is an indirect, improper, and unprecedented procedure."

"To refuse him the oath of office means to ignore the election in Illinois. It means that a state cannot elect a United States senator without the consent and approval of the senate."

"It means to subtract from the sovereignty of the state and to make the United States senate sovereign in the matter of choosing United States senators."

Would Defend Himself. Mr. Smith stated before the special committee that he will defend himself after taking the oath of office, should objection be made to his right to a seat in this body. He said, "I shall freely, gladly, and unflinchingly meet any charges regarding my moral or other fitness to continue a member of this distinguished body."

"Mr. President, the oath of office should be administered to Senator-elect Smith. The sovereign right of the state of Illinois to elect its United States senator should be respected. Should objections be made in the senate against him thereafter, let him then meet them in his own defense and in his own proper person."

HEARING IS REPORTED

The committee report presented by Senator Reed (Mo.) recited the facts relative to the appearance of Mr. Smith, Attorney General Carlstrom of Illinois, and State Senator John Daley, representing the Illinois legislature.

"The attorney general of Illinois, State Senator Daley, and Mr. Smith all took the position," said the report, "that until and unless Mr. Smith was sworn in as a United States senator neither the special committee nor any regular committee of the senate, nor the senate itself had the power or jurisdiction to pass upon the qualifications of Mr. Smith or to take any action whatsoever in relation to his claim to a seat."

"It will be observed that nothing was presented by Mr. Smith on his behalf which has not been heretofore presented in evidence of the senate. He offered no new evidence; he simply stood upon the ground that the committee and the senate were alike without jurisdiction to consider and pass upon his right to a seat in the senate until it shall have seated him as a senator."

Summarizing the testimony given by Mr. Insull and Mr. Schuyler, the report said:

"For the present it is thought sufficient to state that their evidence was as directly pertinent to this report as was to the effect that Mr. Insull had by the hand of Mr. Schuyler delivered to Charles R. Francis, the Small-Landin organization, $25,000 in cash; that Francis had charged the publicity work in the Small-Landin faction. That fact was understood to be supporting Senator-elect Smith, but that they also had a candidate for sheriff, and that the candidate was running with a group of other men that the state organization was supporting."

$25,000 to Harding. "Mr. Insull also contributed $25,000 to George F. Harding for the called Harding organization. This was paid in cash by hand of Mr. Schuyler. That Harding was an important man in certain wards in Chicago, particularly the First, Second, Third, Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh wards, and that he was understood to be supporting Mr. Smith and a group of candidates, and that the money was turned over to Harding to help him in his fight with his group of candidates; that the son the witnesses had refused in the previous examinations of the committee to disclose the persons to whom these monies were paid, was because Francis and Harding had told Schuyler that they did not want him to mention their names and did not want to cause they were not in the senatorial campaign and had not been seated in it, and did not want to be mixed up in it."

"Nevertheless, Witness Schuyler stated that he understood that Francis was supporting a group or groups of candidates which embraced Mr. Smith as a candidate to the nomination to the United States senate."

SUNDAY.

President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State will not arrive in Chicago until Saturday, according to a message received yesterday from Mr. M. J. Foherty, president of the board of local improvements, who is in New York to welcome Cosgrave on his arrival in America. It had been expected that President Cosgrave would arrive here on Friday.

The Irish Fellowship club, which will entertain President Cosgrave in Chicago, was therefore compelled to rearrange the reception plans and a new program was announced.

The fellowship club, through Roger Foherty, its president, announced a committee to greet President Cosgrave as follows:

George W. Dixon, E. N. Hurley, Michael Rosenberg, James M. Whalen, Robert E. Crowe, Harry A. Newby, T. J. Crowe, Oscar W. Schmidt, John Foherty, Stanley Adamkiewicz, and Judge Henry Horner.

Mayor Thompson refused to become involved in the feud of the Irish Republicans and the Irish Free Staters. He was incensed at the receipt of a petition to him signed by city employees who are Republican partisans and who urged him to refuse to receive President Cosgrave.

Ramon de Valera, leader of the Irish Republican and former president of the revolutionary Irish republic, was at the Sherman hotel yesterday, seeking financial aid for a newspaper to be published in Ireland, and he refused to be drawn into any controversy over the arrival of President Cosgrave.

INJURED

RENEE ADOREE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Renee Adoree, motion picture actress, was painfully hurt in an automobile accident in the vicinity of Mount Wilson, and returned to her Hollywood home today. While the movie company was in the highlands for "snow backgrounds," Miss Adoree was riding in a movie taxicab, which bumped into a truck, and the actress was thrown, sustaining cuts over forehead and eyes.

EXONERATE DOGS IN $10,000 SUIT FILED OVER BITE

Rags, an alreale, and Mitzie, his poodle kennel mate, were exonerated yesterday by a jury in Superior Judge Hugo Farn's court. They were charged with having bitten Mrs. Alice Massey, 4531 Ellis avenue, on the ankle on May 4, 1926.

The suit was an action for damages brought by Mrs. Massey, asking $10,000, of Policeman John Henry Bird, 4537 Ellis avenue, owner of the dogs. She was injured in a fight between her wolfhound, Bob, and Rags and Mitzie.

Attorney Louis L. Cohen, representing the patrolman, argued to the jury that it was more likely that a wolfhound would bite his own mistress than that an alreale or a poodle would hurt any one. Judging from the verdict, the jury placed the blame on the hound, now dead.

ROB MEAT WAGON DRIVER.

Two Negroes climbed aboard a meat wagon yesterday driven by R. Backer, 1433 North Leavitt street, and robbed him of $100.

THREAT BY GANG BRINGS CALL FOR ILLINOIS TROOPS

St. Charles School Head Fears "42" Mob.

Maj. William J. Butler, superintendent of the state reformatory for boys at St. Charles, Ill., yesterday requested Adj. Gen. Carlos Black to station National Guardsmen at that institution to prevent a threatened machine gun raid by members of the notorious Forty-two gang of Chicago.

The threat came by long distance telephone yesterday. Maj. Butler was called from Chicago.

"This is the Forty-two gang," he was informed. "Unless you let our pals go we'll come down there and kill every one we see. We've got plenty of men and some machine guns."

Taken Driving Stolen Car.

The youths to whom the message referred were William Colash, Pasquello Steffanelli, and Charles Lopardo. They were taken into custody on Sunday as they drove around the grounds of the reformatory in a stolen car. Later they admitted that they were making plans for the escape of two inmates of the place.

At first, Maj. Butler said, he was inclined to scoff at the threat, but after Chicago policemen had taken charge of Lopardo, who is wanted as the leader of a gang accused of thirty robberies, and informed him how desperate the Forty-two organization is, he decided to take precautions.

"I want men who can and will shoot to guard us," he said. "If there is to be a machine gun raid we'll make it a two-sided war."

The uneasiness of the officials of the reformatory was increased when it was reported yesterday afternoon that three youths in a large automobile had halted on the Lincoln highway at the edge of the grounds and taken pictures of the approaches to the building. It was feared they were scouts preparing the way for the attacking forces.

Calls Colash Desperate.

Colash, according to Maj. Butler, has been an inmate of St. Charles seven times and is the most desperate young criminal the superintendent ever met. He last escaped a year ago. Since that he had one raid on the reformatory and at the point of a pistol compelled the guard at one of the dormitories to release a friend. He is said to have killed a jailer in an Iowa county in escaping and is wanted for robbery in Galena, Ill.

The Forty-two gang, an organization of west side youths, for years has been the training school of criminals, the Chicago police asserted last night. Its members frequently have appeared in courts to defend themselves against charges ranging from petty thievery to major robberies, rape and murder.

ATTEMPT TO KILL BELGIAN PRINCE; ROOM IS BLASTED

LONDON, Jan. 17.—[U. P.]—A sensational attempt was made today to assassinate Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium in the palace at Bellevue, according to a Daily Chronicle dispatch today from Brussels. A dispatch from Brussels to the Morning Post also tells of the attempt.

The Chronicle's dispatch said an explosion occurred in the room in which Prince Leopold was working. The door of the room was damaged and the windows shattered. Fire broke out and the room soon was filled with smoke, but the heir to the throne was rescued, uninjured.

Greatest secrecy was observed by palace officials and police.

The Morning Post said suspicion already has been directed to certain quarters. No arrests have been made yet, it is said.

MISSING SMITH GIRL IS REPORTED IN PHILADELPHIA

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 17.—[U. P.]—Divergent trails followed by investigators today left them without a solution of the question of why Miss Frances St. John Smith, Smith college freshman and daughter of a wealthy New York broker, dropped out of sight last Friday and what became of her.

Of what appeared to be the two most promising lines of inquiry one centered in Deerfield, a few miles from this city, and the other pointed toward New York and possibly Philadelphia.

The basis for the Deerfield search was the statement of George D. Wood of Bristol, Conn., that a girl resembling Miss Smith spoke to him when he stopped his car in Deerfield on Sunday.

A theory that Miss Smith might have gone to New York developed as the result of the statement of a Northampton man to State Detective Joseph V. Daly, in charge of the search, that he stood directly behind a young woman answering her description as she bought a ticket for New York last Friday at the Northampton station. This man said, however, that he did not see her board the train and the ticket agent did not recall seeing her.

Appearing to square with this theory was the statement of a business man in Philadelphia that he saw a girl who he felt sure was Miss Smith on a train which arrived in Philadelphia from New York yesterday noon.

She was accompanied, he said, by a middle aged woman, and he overheard them talking about Smith college, with which the girl seemed to be familiar.

She left the train with her companion at Philadelphia, he said.

SMALL GRABS AT STRAW TO SAVE APRIL PRIMARIES

But All Signs Show Early Vote on Rocks.

the pace and because some believed such an action might offend the Supreme court, it was sent to the judicial committee. This was considered a side-track move, but unless the court acts within a few days, the resolution, it is believed, will pass the senate.

Small Explains Position.

Going over the situation with newspaper men late in the day, Gov. Small said, without reservation, that he still favors the April primary in order to permit the rank and file of the parties to express themselves on presidential candidates, but that he considers the expense of a spring presidential primary alone—that is, with the primary for nominations for office in the fall—unjustifiable. He said it would be an unnecessary burden of $3,000,000 on the taxpayers.

That the governor was ready this morning to meet what were supposed to be Brennan's final terms, until the Thompson-Crowe switch strengthened his position, was believed indicated when Senator Richard Meents, one of his leaders, introduced a new set of primary bills.

These bills split in two the contents of the Small party organization bill introduced last week. Analysts said that with this layout the assembly, by passing the right bills, could provide for April primaries for nominating candidates for office with a presidential preference vote on the same day, and could strike out provisions for the popular election of district delegates to the national convention, leaving that to the party organization in state convention. But the theory that this would be acceptable to the governor encountered the obstacle of his opposition to the expense of the two primaries which would be necessary.

Have Your Dollars Stretched

—at the Neighborhood Bank

UNCLE SAM SAYS, "SPEND MY money, save it, give it away, do anything you please with it, but if you alter or deface it in any way you're in for trouble." Here is a way however to alter your dollars—in effect to stretch them—without incurring official disapproval. The idea is to make your money go farther by spending on a definite plan—not haphazard. Thus you avoid waste and have more not only for real necessities but for special purposes such as buying a home, educating your children or protecting your old age. This practical method of stretching your dollars is to estimate how much you actually need to spend in order to live comfortably—then to open two accounts at your Neighborhood Bank—one for current expenses, the other as a depository for the surplus which will result if you follow this simple plan. It's amazing to see how rapidly such a special fund will grow. Figure it out today and let the Neighborhood Bank help you "stretch your dollars."

JEWISH BUSINESS LEADERS PRAISE CROWE AT DINNER

6,800 Attend Banquet for State's Attorney.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe was the guest of the Associated Jewish Business Men of Chicago at dinner last night during which he was termed "the greatest state's attorney Cook county has ever had" and hailed as "a man of tolerance and free from religious and racial prejudices."

Ten banquet halls at the Hotel Sherman were filled and the College Inn and the Celtic room were required for the overflow. The attendance was ascertained as 6,800.

Rabbi Abraham Hirschberg was toastmaster. Others at the speakers' table were Harold Foreman, president of the Foreman banks; Samuel Deutsch, president of the United Jewish Charities; Harry L. Stern and Jacob Newman, lawyers; Seymour Schiff, Max Schulman and R. Horwich, bankers; D. Komis, merchant; E. Woolf and Oliver Salinger, realty operators; Barney Balaban of Balaban & Katz; James Levy, automobile distributor; Judges Michael Feinberg and Hugo Pan, and Mayor William Hale Thompson. The organizers of the banquet were Robert R. Levy, Louis J. Meyers, Louis J. Golan, and Harry A. Ash.

Join in Praise of Prosecutor.

Rabbi Hirschberg praised Crowe for his "human sympathy coupled with judgment and fairness." Judge Pan described Crowe as "the law enforcer who has a keen sense of duty."

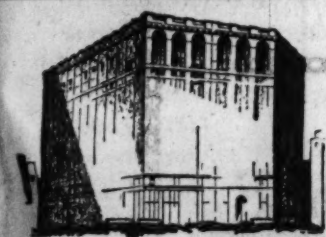

Mayor Thompson said the City of Chicago has been penalized to the extent of $50,000,000 a year because newspapers call it a crime center. State's Attorney Crowe, he said, has "labored day and night to send criminals to their just deserts," and "with his cooperation and the work of Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes Chicago is practically free from crime."

"Print that, New York, will you?" said Mayor Thompson into the radio microphone when he read a report showing that crime in December, 1927, was 66 per cent less than in December, 1926. He finished by asking all to aid in the renomination and reelection of Crowe to his present office.

Judge Feinberg thanked Him.

Judge Feinberg discussed the cooperation of the courts with the prosecutor. He offered a resolution praising Crowe's record in office and thanking him for his services in giving protection to the city and county.

Mr. Crowe's response, in substance, was: "Do your duty as jurors and there will be far less crime. Police,

When he was elected state's attorney eight years ago, he said, the record of the office was 22 convictions for each 100 indictments. ## MANVILLE SUED FOR $7,000,000 BY EMPLOYEES

New York, Jan. 17.—Thirty-seven present and former employees of the John-Manville corporation have brought suit for $7,000,000 against H. E. Manville, former president, in an effort to regain ownership of 40,000 shares of stock bequeathed to them by Thomas F. Manville. It was revealed in papers filed in Surrogate's court today. The employees charge that they were induced to transfer their stock to H. E. Manville at $150 a share upon his plea that it was needed to assure his control of the company, as banking groups were seeking to purchase the stock of other legatees.

They claim that Manville, disregarding his promise to continue as president, reorganized the corporation, sold a controlling interest to bankers and retired from active management. It is alleged that the stock sold by them to Manville for $150 a share now has an equivalent market value of $500 a share.

Three for One Split.

Thomas F. Manville, who died Oct. 19, 1925, directed in his will that 40,000 shares of stock of the company, equivalent to 130,000 shares of the present issue as a result of a subsequent three for one splitup, be distributed among employees who had been with the company for at least five years and who had received $10,000 or more in salary during the previous calendar year.

These employees were to pay one-half of the then market value, the other half being a gift. Fifty-eight employees qualified under this provision, among them H. E. Manville.

The complaint sets forth that shortly prior to his death, Thomas Manville had been negotiating for the sale of a large interest in the company to bankers, and that H. E. Manville had retired from active participation in its management. As a result of a petition presented by the employees, H. E. Manville again assumed management of the company and agreed, it is alleged, to terminate negotiations with banking interests. On representations that the children of Thomas Manville had threatened to sell their stock to banking interests, making it difficult for H. E. Manville to obtain control, the employees state that they were induced to transfer the ownership of their stock for their supposed mutual benefit.

Cash Dividend of $18 Share.

The employees state that almost immediately after securing control of their stock, a cash dividend of $18 a share was declared, which insured very largely to the benefit of H. E. Manville, who subsequently brought about a reorganization of the company and sold a controlling interest in the new concern to a banking group. While the name of the new purchaser is not revealed in the official complaint, J. P. Morgan & Co. were identified with the transaction at the time it was made.

Emory R. Buckner, who is one of the attorneys for the plaintiffs, states that the John-Manville company is in no way involved in this litigation, since the suit is purely a personal one against H. E. Manville; Nathaniel S. Robinson, of Milwaukee, his former attorney, and the Heman corporation and Stellar corporation, two of Mr. Manville's private corporations.

SETTLE DISPUTE OVER CHILEAN ATTACK ON U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 17.—Foreign Minister Rios announced today that the dispute between the American embassy and the Chilean foreign ministry, over editorials in La Nación, government owned newspaper, severely criticizing the United States, has been settled.

The editorials in question bitterly denounced the intervention by the United States in Nicaragua, and depicted Gen. Augustino Sandino, leader of the rebels against whom the United States marines are fighting, as a hero. They asserted the intervention had set back Pan-Americanism fifty years.

The government explained the editorials in no way reflected its opinion. It announced that in the future, articles in the paper will be inspired with the spirit of bettering Chilean-American relations.

Winter's Colds and Chills

Throw Heavy Burdens on the Kidneys.

DOES winter find you lame, stiff and aching? Do you feel tired, drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headaches and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage? Do you wonder what is wrong? Know then that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Colds and grip create poisons in the blood that bring extra work to the kidneys. When the kidneys act sluggishly, waste impurities remain in the blood and cause many unpleasant symptoms. Thousands have learned to rely on Doan's Pills after winter's colds and chills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have earned a nation-wide reputation. Ask your neighbor!

VOTE FOR BEER AND DRY NORRIS, RADICALS' PLAN

La Follette Machine Is Facing Mutiny.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—
With bated breath, so to speak, Wisconsin is waiting for the appearance of the Blaine-La Follette group as a political amphibian, both wet and dry.
It is heralded for the conference Saturday which will frame a national platform for the radicals, to be used first in the fight for national delegates and later, if the chance affords, as the La Follette-Blaine contribution to the party at the Kansas City Republican convention next June.

One of Wettest States.
Wisconsin is rated as one of the wettest of states, but this time beer is developing as the overshadowing issue, and it is shaking up old political groups, the main disturbance occurring within the old La Follette ranks. The old "Fighting Bob" always was able to keep an even balance between wet and dry, in the state and the liquor issue had little play in his campaign.
But his successors in the old La Follette camp have been less skillful, and among the old time La Folletteites one hears groans that in the delegate fight which comes to a head early in April the radical leaders are floundering in a sea of incongruities and contradictions.
Present plans, insiders in the La Follette-Blaine crowd declare, are to adopt a wet plank Saturday and indorse bone dry Senator George W.
Norris of Nebraska for the presidency.

Follow Referendum.
The wet plank is expected to follow the referendum in November, 1928, when the state voted wet almost 2 to
1. The question was whether congress ought to amend the Volstead act to permit 2.75 beer, the sale to be under government control, and no beverages to be consumed on the premises where bought. Wisconsin cast 249,000 votes for this idea and 177,000 against.
At the recent Milwaukee convention an understanding was reached that a wet plank should go into the platform and leaders say they expect it will be as moist as was the referendum proposal. At the same time, the present outlook, insiders say, is that the weekend conference will indorse Norris, a dry, for the presidency.

Senator Norris is said to have declared he sees no harm in 3 per cent beer, but among the old war horses there is criticism that this presents the incongruity of a wet declaration of principles and a dry candidate.
The impious say the voters never will be fooled if a set of paper mache fins and a fishball are pinned on Norris.

Report Blaine Against Norris.
Word is afloat that Senator Blaine is not for Mr. Norris, but that he is expected to stand for indorsement of the dry Nebraskan in return for a wet plank.
Among the radical rank and file, the argument is being peddled that a dry plank on a wet plank really is not a contradiction, if one looks at it upside down, because a dry can do more to make things wet than can a wet.

This it is pointed out, is the direct opposite of the arguments in the last elections, when the wet and dry issue was prominent, and wet Blaine forces concentrated their final attacks on Lenroot because he voted for the dry law. Curiously enough, Milwaukee and other wet spots were much wetter under the dry Lenroot than in the days of the wet Blaine. Radicals say the drive of the Federal agents in introducing the padlock to Milwaukee is to put Blaine in bad with the voters.

Carry Water on Both Shoulders.

Echoes of disturbance all over the state are pouring into Madison, and there is wholesale criticism among old
La Follette captains of the apparent effort to carry water on both shoulders. Withdrawal of Zona Gale, the author, from the Blaine-La Follette ticket as delegate at large to the Republican national convention, is ascribed in one leading state publication to distaste for the attitude of the radicals in making beer the great issue.

From all appearances, it is nothing like a happy family, and this time the loudest kicks are emanating from within the faction itself. One line of surmise which is much talked of deals with the radical platform at Kansas City. For years the Wisconsin radicals have been submitting their platform at Republican national conventions and it has been promptly rejected. At Cleveland the Wisconsin delegates remained in their seats, with the exception of one man, during the demonstration over the nomination of Coolidge.

It is argued by some that if the Blaine-La Follette delegates win in Wisconsin and get the ear of the convention, a wet plank might sound pretty good to delegates from New York and Chicago and start a rumour.
If turned down, too, some deem it might be used by radicals as ground for bolting the ticket and aiding Gov.
Al Smith if he is the Democratic nominee.

Has 3 Jailed as Thieves, Gets 30 Day Term Herself

Mrs. Petronella Yorish, 35, of 927
West 23d place, caused the arrest of three youths last Saturday. They had taken her radio batteries and shoes, she asserted. But after a trial in the Boys' court it was Mrs. Yorish who went to the jailhouse. She was sentenced to thirty days when the defendants testified she sold them moonshine and they were so intoxicated they didn't know what they were doing. The youths, whose cases were continued, are Joseph Zaremba, 24 years old, and Joe Shulinsky, 20, of 2218 Lowe avenue, and George McDonald, 19 years old.

THE SENATE ON THE TARIFF.

Twelve Republican senators joined forty-one Democrats to pass a resolution saying that many of the tariff rates are excessive and declaring for an immediate downward revision to establish a closer parity between agriculture and labor. The senators who left their party on this proposal and turned to Democratic doctrine were Blaine and La Follette of Wisconsin, Dorn of Idaho, Brookhart of Iowa, Capper of Kansas, Norris and Nye of North Dakota, Howell and Francis of Nebraska, McMaster and Norbeck of South Dakota, and Pine of Oklahoma.

Tariff legislation must originate in the house of representatives. The senate has sent its resolution there. It is only a gust of wind unless the house ways and means committee will accept suggestion and advice. In the past it has been independent as to its rights and privileges.

Eight states were represented in the Republican tariff bill, agricultural rather than industrial. They have a population, according to the last census, of 11,848,000.

Pennsylvania and Illinois have a population of 13,205,000. Each has one senator in the chamber and one outside the door on the curb. Pennsylvania and Illinois are industrial states. Illinois also has great agricultural interests and Pennsylvania has them, but both are tariff states and it is a certainty that Smith and Vane, if they were sitting in the seats to which the people of the states elected them, would have voted against the resolution.

The Republicans who bolted the party are principally the senators who are keeping these Republicans from their places. They have not allowed them to take their seats subject to an examination of their qualifications. They have refused to accept the certificate of election at the door. They have denied the right of the states to elect them.

It happens that if they had been seated and voting the resolution nevertheless would have been passed. The bolters had the balance, but it does show a method by which interference with the right of a state to elect its representatives can be converted into a means of doing legislative violence to the wishes and interests of these states.

The bolting Republicans are radicals, many of whom are not attached to the Republican party by opinion or intent. They retain the name without an actual connection. Such connection as they have they use to the embarrassment and disfigurement of the party. The agricultural impudence with the tariff has been carried to what may easily prove to be damaging extremes. It is politically untenable. The real tottem is tariff destruction, not reduction. No argument is required to disclose the need for agricultural relief, but it is destructive to believe that this can be done by injuring the industrial production of the country.

A disparity of representation and population is provided in the very scheme of the senate. That is supposed to be offset by other considerations of public policy, but the scheme does not provide the right to deny representation as is done in the senate by the refusal to accept certificates of election and in the house of representatives by refusal to have the representation on the changes of population from one census to another.

MRS. DOLDER SQUARES THE ACCOUNT.

Mrs. Helen Dolder took her appointment after her husband's death to succeed him as sheriff of De Kalb county with some natural misgivings. Her new and possibly strange duties would require her to take responsibility for arrests and raids and also for the jail and its inmates. A woman might flinch a little from that, but in the new feminism the motto is: "Where wheels have gone wheels can go." Mrs. Dolder took the badge and said she did not anticipate much trouble. She'd give the boys in the jail good food. That would keep them contented and she'd get a husky deputy to wrestle the outside citizens who needed it.

The good food program went into the ditch at the first try. It was a supper of mush, which is a dish of merit, but many of the jail customers must have taken an aversion to it in early youth. They refused to regard it as a meal and raised a riot. They wouldn't eat, they wouldn't shut up, and they wouldn't go to their cells. Mrs. Dolder turned the fire hose on them, plastered them up against the wall, and soon changed their tune from one of bulldozing the cook to one of pleading with the jailer.

Whatever else may happen to Mrs. Sheriff Dolder in her official career she probably will say that life was at its full tide for her when she was able to respond with the perfect comeback to a kick on the food. The male guard at the dinner table is centuries old, a male meanness for which there has been little to do. Occasionally it has got the grouch a little in the ear or a salt shaker in the eye, but more often he has been endured with a hurt but submissive silence. Mrs. Dolder just about evened up the whole score, and she must have given not only her but multitudes of women a profound satisfaction.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IN CUBA.

President Coolidge did not say a great deal when he spoke to the Pan-American congress in Havana. Evidently it wasn't in his mind to do so. It was a state occasion of courtesy and not, as he saw it, one of a document. He made a pleasant speech and was nicely received. As a compliment to the importance of the gathering his visit was as impressive as anything he could do.

Mussolini in like place would have said something in the grand manner, but Mr. Coolidge went to Cuba to make a condensed state visit to the other republics. It is yet to be seen whether his speech limits the declarations the United States is prepared to make specifically in outlining its views of international relations as they are and as they should be in the Americas.

It is possible that the American government will present its general good will as self-evident and its altruism as transparent, taking up, each in its own way, such incidents as require attention from time to time, offering remonstrances when necessary to Mexico, intervention to Nicaragua and mediation to Chile and Peru. It is true that this has not worked badly thus far in material consequences and it is also true that it has not answered all the questions or removed all the alarm and irritation.

The American government may feel that it is impolitic to go beyond this and that an attempt at clearer statements might lead to proposals of arrangements which could be avoided only by creating unnecessary ill will or accepted only by taking on complications which were better side-stepped. Thus far, at least, the United States is merely talking politely and standing pat.

IN MR. KELLOGG'S ABSENCE.

Nine hundred women, meeting in Washington to discuss our country's foreign and defense policies, were denied the pleasure of hearing Secretary of State Kellogg. He was, at the moment, in Cuba, and even if he weren't there he would be too busy raising Mr. Briand of France a couple of blue chips.

Mr. Briand, it will be recalled, proposed some months ago that this country and France agree never to go to war against each other no matter what the provocation. Since then the cables have been kept comfortably warm with proposals and counter-proposals to pass this good thing around. Each note suggests a new and hitherto unconsidered sector of the world to which outlaws, as it is called, can be applied. There is no initiation fee, the matter of dues has not been mentioned, and Mr. Briand and Mr. Kellogg, the membership committee, appear to want a club exclusive of nobody and nothing.

Among the 900 women meeting in Washington, we are advised by reporters, there are not a few who have been called pacifists. Some of them have been astonished at the way the state department, which they had been taught could do no right, was taking up with this newest heart-warming notion. They had hoped to observe Mr. Kellogg, bare but for two yards of flowing drapery, bounding with naked feet under the stars to a gently fluted melody in F. His absence was regretted, but sorrow was assuaged with the announcement that Assistant Secretary of State William Castle Jr. would oblige.

The ladies, rightly or wrongly, had come to believe that all the officials of the state department were wearing tulips. Mr. Castle wore pants. He warned his audience that "when the pursuit of peace becomes a fad, the cause of peace is injured." He named no names, but he ventured to say that "there are many who believe that if the United States signed agreements with other nations to outlaw war there inevitably would be no war, but this is to ignore realities, to ignore human weakness, to miss the fact that nations are not sublime moral entities but rather groups of fallible and passionate human beings."

This leaves us in some doubt as to the policy of Mr. Kellogg's department. Mr. Castle seems either to be talking against outlawry or toward sanctions. He appears not to be asking but to be telling his chief, Mr. Kellogg, about foreign affairs. It is lucky for Mr. Castle that he does not work for the army or the navy. They don't let admirals and generals wander off the reservation, much less deliberately walk off.

A photograph of Mr. Briand or any other European foreign minister, at the moment of being advised of Mr. Castle's remarks, will merit careful study. We venture to say that the world's eyebrow-lifting record has been broken.

Editorial of the Day

BAD LEADERSHIP.

[The Decatur (Ill.) Herald.]

Methodist churches in Chicago threaten a boycott of Chicago newspapers whose editorial policy on prohibition is disapproved. More than that, the churches propose a secondary boycott, intended to punish advertisers who continue to patronize the papers.

"Threaten" is perhaps too strong a word for the case. It will be difficult to believe that the warning of the clergymen is more than a bluff. If the clergy are in earnest about it, there is still the certainty that they cannot make their cause effective among tens of thousands of disbelievers.

Defeat in practice will not avert the damage done even by suggestion of a policy as stupid and mischievous. An outsider is moved to wonder what has happened to the leadership of the denomination, usually statesmanlike and effective. Englishmen will find, even in the fact that a threat of this sort has been made, a more convincing evidence of the backward civilization of Chicago than in the gratuitous insult offered Maude Royden. The Maude Royden incident can be explained away, as an outcropping of provincial folk ways. A boycott to punish opinion hits at a fundamental in democratic government.

What is wrong with it? Well, for one thing, it ought not to be necessary to suggest to a company of Protestants that any forcible compulsion to think in a particular way are dangerously inconsistent with the doctrine upon which their road to heaven is built. It ought not to be necessary to suggest to an organization, insistent in its demand for enforcement of certain laws, that violation of other laws by invoking an illegal boycott destroys all moral value in its policy. And finally, it ought not to be necessary to suggest that an editorial approval or even a neutrality obtained by economic pressure would be worth precisely nothing. It is possible to respect a man or a newspaper that is in error. It is not possible to respect one whose opinions are for sale.

THOSE TUXEDO SUITS.

A hostess gave a big party for which a number of extra servants were engaged. Seeing one young man standing alone, she asked: "Shall I find you a partner?"

"No, please don't trouble," he replied. "I'm afraid it might make the other waiters jealous."—Trib.

HUMIDIFYING THE AIR IN WINTER TIME.

HUMIDIFYING the air in a house heated by hot water presents great difficulties. The problem is more difficult for that kind of heating than for any other. Dr. E. C. Rosenow thinks he has solved the problem. About six years ago he built a new home and heated it by hot water. When winter came he found the air in his new home uncomfortably dry. Perhaps it was unhealthy as well. He then devised an apparatus which he has since used. Six years' experience has proved to him that it is possible to keep the air comfortably moist in a home heated by hot water.

His device consists of a pan set on the top of the radiator. In this pan is a coil of wire which supports sheets of absorbent paper. Water is fed automatically into this pan, being controlled by a float valve which keeps the water level. One of these pans is set on each hot water radiator, or on as many as are needed to keep the air moist.

The apparatus is gotten up in an attractive and compact form. Various mechanical improvements have been made in the apparatus since it has been in use. One improvement, not mechanical, consists of the addition to the water of a non-volatile chemical which kills such bacteria as fall on the moist paper.

When Dr. Rosenow put this device in operation he found that it not only kept the air moist but also kept the house warm and comfortable. The humidity in accordance with the temperature and the previous moisture content of the air, but it removed dust and bacteria. It was of service in keeping clean the wall paper, curtains, pictures, furnishings, and books. Probably it also lessened the prevalence of colds among those who occupied the house. Having observed that this humidifier removed bacteria from the air along with the dust, Dr. Rosenow decided to add the non-volatile sterilizing chemical to the water in his device.

IN CASE Senator Ellet Smith's seat is declared vacant today and Gov. Len is obliged (and, goah, how he dreads it) to appoint a new senator from Illinois, we hope he will name Carl Sandburg. Mr. Sandburg's life of Lincoln, "The Prairie Years," has already become a classic and he is pre-eminent as a poet. And if he's in the senate maybe he'll be able to track him down at last and get him to write the foreword for our new book.

THE MYSTERY OF WOMEN.

Murray and I were motoring down Michigan avenue in my—no, I believe it was Murray's—car when he remarked, "You know, the greatest charm about women—the reason men fall in love with them—is that mystery that surrounds them." "The mystery?" I queried. "I gazed out at a signboard. It pictured pink lingerie in a natural setting. I might call it a very charming picture. In fact, I sold call it a very charming picture! It was a very charming picture. The signboard was, of course, then came a whole parade of outdoor advertising—step-ins, 'for milady's toilette'... 'banish freckles'... 'don't wear a hair'... 'the daintiest fabrics'... 'knee rouge'... 'perfumes that attract'... 'for milady's boudoir'... 'abolish skin blemishes'... 'regain your girlish figure'... 'at a stroke'... 'as you were saying,' I resumed, 'about the mystery'."

But Murray had nothing more to say.

FATE

Once there was a little boy,
As little boys are,
Who hitched his wagon
To a star.

The star was bright
And glowing too.
It filled the heavens
With a radiant hue.

The little boy found
A star's source was wide
And beyond the power
Of humans to guide.

When somebody dies,
A star falls, they say;
The little boy's father
Died one day.

And the star that fell
From the heaven's blue
Was the one he had hitched
His wagon to.

KEEPER OF THE STARS.

LOVELY WEATHER we're having right in the middle of January here in the middle of the great Midwest. People who have gone to Los Angeles and Miami are simply out their railroad fare. Heavy overcoats have to be left off, and even light spring coats are a bit too warm. Warm, gentle winds, blue skies, the song of the merry robins, and the trees getting ready to bud. We are no weather prophet, but we see no signs of winter's return, and tomorrow we hope to go into the garden and pluck red roses and in the woods to gather bluebells and buttercups. What a climate! What a climate!

HE WANTS TO CUT THE APPLE TREE DOWN BECAUSE THE STEPLADDER IS TOO SHORT

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 18, 1858.

CAIRO.—Details of Gen. McClelland's battle at Arkansas Post have been received.

On Jan. 11 with the main portion of what was Sherman's force at Vicksburg, conveyed by three gunboats, he went up the Arkansas river to a point about a mile from the fort, where the troops landed. The gunboats opened fire that afternoon, but the land attack was not made until the next morning (Sunday). The fort had been reinforced and our troops met strong resistance. The gunboats and river batteries at the same time were engaged in an artillery duel. Finally the fort's casemates of solid timber and railway iron were battered down and the Union troops entered. Our loss in killed, wounded, and missing was 300 to 500. The rebels lost 200 killed, wounded, and missing, and 5,000 rebels were taken. Among the latter is Gen. Churchill, commander of the fort.

MURFREESBORO.—It is currently reported that Bragg and his rebel force, heavily reinforced, is advancing this way northward. We don't put much faith in the report. Rebel cavalry invades the country in every direction. CHICAGO.—The new city charter divides the city into sixteen wards instead of ten as heretofore, thus allowing thirty-two members of the council instead of the present twenty.

CAIRO.—A special order reads: "Second Lieut. Jesse Ball, company 1, 84th Illinois volunteers, is dishonorably dismissed from the service of the United States for accompanying his tender of resignation with so despicable a reason as that he is tired of the service and is opposed to the proclamation of the President of the United States."

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 18, 1863.

CHICAGO.—A downtown street railway subway is to be provided for in the extension ordinance to be submitted to the Union Traction company.

CHICAGO.—Another chapter was added to Capt. George Wellington Streeter's eventful career when he was sentenced by Judge Chetlain to an indeterminate sentence for manslaughter. He was convicted of killing Watchman John S. Kirk in the "desert."

CHICAGO.—The automatic telephone—"hello" girls, without slot machines and without party lines—is about to be installed in Chicago, says an announcement by the Illinois Telephone and Telegraph company.

CHICAGO.—President Ben Johnson of the American League is still confined to his room at his residence in Prairie avenue and is quite a sick man. The injured leg, which has troubled him since his return from the baseball press conference at Cincinnati last week, has not improved.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 18, 1913.

WASHINGTON.—Despite a deluge of protests and appeals from all over the great region affected, Fuel Administrator Garfield signed the order that shuts down practically all industry east of the Mississippi river. Before signing it he was in telephonic communication with President Wilson and was advised that the President would ignore a request made by the senate for a delay of five days. The government stands pat.

CHICAGO.—More than $1,000,000 in capital is "tied up" in Chicago today by the Garfield coal curtailment order, which went into effect at midnight. Production at the rate of $1,500,000 a year was stopped for five days. If the program is carried out in its entirety, the loss in wages—borne either by the employees or shared by some employers—will exceed $17,000,000. The enforcement of the fuel order is up to Hinton G. Claiborne, building to be along modern lines and we hope, to be the best in the world. Ald. Bowler did introduce such an ordinance last June. It was referred to the finance committee. We obtained a hearing before the committee and were told that the July budget was not large enough to cover this item. At such a hearing recently we were given the opportunity to present our case fully and we were encouraged to learn that the sum required could not be taken from the corporate fund but it was not impossible as a bond issue.

MRS. J. E. CAIRNS WINS DECREE AND $1,000 A MONTH

Wealthy Broker Divides Holdings with Her.

Mrs. Anna M. Cairns, 990 Lake Shore drive, was awarded a divorce yesterday by Superior Judge John J. Sullivan from James E. Cairns, until recently managing partner of the brokerage firm of Jackson Bros. & Co., 140 West Van Buren street. The decree provides that she will receive $1,000 a month alimony for the support of herself and their one child, Anna May, 11 years old. In addition, she received property estimated at $250,000 in accordance with an agreement with her husband reached out of court, it was announced. The property includes household furnishings, securities, jewelry, and the perpetual leasehold and stock in the cooperative apartment where they resided on Lake Shore drive.

Cruelty Charges Made.

The divorce was granted on a charge of cruelty. Mrs. Cairns testified that on New Year's day of 1927 her husband struck her while she was in the kitchen's pantry and as two servants looked on. "I was trying to keep him from drinking," she said. "After he knocked me down, I went home to mother's."

Again last April 15, according to the wife's testimony, Cairns struck her while he was drinking. She again went home to her mother and on her return found that he had cut up several of her gowns, she said.

Brother Aids Her Story.

Mrs. Cairns' witness was her brother, Malcolm Joseph Pink, 3556 Addison avenue. He testified he intervened in his sister's family trouble, telling Cairns "I'd do a little striking myself," unless he stopped hitting Mrs. Cairns.

The Cairns were married Sept. 1, 1911, and separated on their fourteenth wedding anniversary, Sept. 1, 1927, according to the evidence. Mr. Cairns did not contest the suit but was represented in court by Attorney Jay Fred Reeve. She was represented by Attorney Robert T. Mack.

JUDGE AND KEGEL DEFEND TESTS FOR MEN VICE PATRONS

Ignoring protests by a group of clubwomen and social workers, Health Commissioner A. H. Kegel and Municipal Judge Joseph L. McCarthy yesterday sustained their plan for "single standard" treatment of persons seized in raids on vice resorts.

The judge sent to the health department thirty-seven men for medical examination. They must return for further treatment in 10 days.

The clubwomen, led by Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, president of the Juvenile Protective association, denounced this new method as futile.

"Dr. Kegel and I have no quarrel with these clubwomen," Judge McCarthy said, "but we believe this method will benefit the public and individuals. Vice resorts have been in existence for centuries and I suppose will never be completely eradicated."

Commissioner Kegel declared he believed the plan will succeed and that a majority of Chicago women approve it. Dr. Joseph B. Sonnenschein of the health department produced figures to show that nearly twice as many persons have been brought to the morals court during the first two weeks of 1928 than during the same time in 1927. He credited the police department with that change.

German Envoy Fetes French Chiefs; 1st Time Since War

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Jan. 17.—For the first time since 1914 the German embassy in Paris was host to members of the French cabinet today when Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and three other French ministers attended a luncheon in honor of Dr. Wirth, former chancellor of Germany and now leader of the German Centrist party.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thinning out their bowels every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

BRITAIN SENDS 5 WARSHIPS; SEE HINT TO JAPAN

Far East Claims J. Bull Dislikes Soviet Deal.

BY JOHN POWELL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 17.—Great Britain's sudden decision, announced last Sunday, to dispatch five first-class 10,000-ton cruisers—the Kent, Berwick, Cumberland, Cornwall, and Suffolk—to China, is arousing keen speculation in far eastern diplomatic and naval circles. Until recently Great Britain has been gradually withdrawing its naval and military from China, owing to the quieting of the Chinese situation.

British officialdom is uncommunicative, but it is learned from authoritative quarters that the British admiral's action in dispatching the cruisers constitutes a gesture of disapproval of the Japanese premier, Baron Tanaka's movement toward a Russo-Japanese alliance.

Viscount Goto, who was responsible for Japan's recognition of the soviets, recently was dispatched to Moscow for the announced purpose of "inspecting Russia's educational system." However, it has been commonly accepted that the purpose of his visit was to lay the groundwork for a Russo-Japanese understanding, whereby the soviets would not protest further against the Japanese penetration of Manchuria and north China, while Japan would recognize the Russian predominance in Mongolia. Viscount Goto is now returning to Tokio.

Report Russia Balks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 17.—The negotiations of the Japanese delegation headed by Viscount Goto in Moscow for the last three weeks have proved fruitless and the large colonization concessions the Japanese have been seeking in the Amur valley of Siberia are not likely to materialize, according to a diplomat who just arrived from Moscow.

While the soviet government has not the capital itself to develop the Amur region, Foreign Commissar G. V. Chicherin steadfastly has refused to permit Japan to get a strong foothold in Siberia. While Japan is eager to obtain timber, gold and fishing rights, Moscow is only willing to grant a short term fishing concession against a large loan, which the Japanese are unable to give.

Urges Trade Treaty.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(P)—Viscount Goto, former Japanese foreign minister, a Riga dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says, is returning from Moscow to Tokio and has announced he will continue to advocate the closest relations between Japan and soviet Russia. He urges early conclusion of a Russo-Japan commercial treaty.

GERMAN UNITY PARLEY STUMPED ON STATE RIGHTS

Fear Centralization Move Will Fail.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—(P)—Fears that the conference of the premiers of the German states may fail to bring about positive steps toward a "unitary state," combining unified administration and elimination of certain territorial dividing lines, were freely expressed today by Premier Ulrich of Hesse. This view is shared by part of the German press, which regrets the stubborn resistance of the large southern states, Bavaria and Württemberg, to giving up any state rights.

Complex Territory Problem.

The conference opened here yesterday with more than 100 delegates present, but it is considered too unlikely for the solution of the grave problem of a unitary state involving many territorial complexities and the necessity of abolishing many historical privileges.

It is semi-officially pointed out that the conference can be expected only to set forth clearly the necessity of ultimate regulation of the existing divergencies between the old Hismarckian and the Weimar constitution, and that a smaller committee must grapple with the practical steps to be taken. Such a committee would be given a definite period within which to report.

Aim to Smash Dynasties.

Some of the premiers indicated their belief that unification of administration and the elimination of overlapping could be achieved without giving up the state rights principle. There seems to be a general agreement that only such states must remain as can maintain themselves of their own strength. There also is a consensus that the time has come to eliminate the remnants of former dynasties.

HIT BY STREET CAR, INJ.

James McMahon, 45, of 5730 Lowe avenue, a painter, died yesterday of injuries suffered Jan. 12, when he was struck by a Halsted street surface car at 35th street.

GIRL AND FIANCE SHOT TO DEATH IN SUICIDE PACT

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 17.—(P)—

The bodies of Gerald E. Keck, 28, reputed wealthy Pasadena resident, and Dorothy Youngman, 22, believed to have resided in Roseman, Mont., and St. Paul, Minn., were found clamped in each other's arms, bullet holes in their heads, in an automobile at Irwindale, near here, today. A letter indicated a suicide pact.

Police investigation revealed that Keck was the son of the late Orlando Keck, wealthy grain elevator operator of Rock Rapids, Ia. The elder Keck died in Pasadena last year.

On the floor of the car a pistol was found and there were numerous cigarette stubs, the latter indicating the couple may have talked for some time before the shots were fired.

A noted in Keck's wallet read: "Dear Mother: Rather than lose her, Dorothy and I are leaving the world together. It is my wish that we be cremated together and placed in the same urn. Forgive me please. I love you mother. Good-bye. Gerald." The note was sealed and appeared to have been carried for some time. Letters and telegrams were found in the pocketbook belonging to the dead girl.

Keck lived with his mother. The girl lived in Los Angeles with her mother, Mrs. D. Youngman, and a sister. The Youngman family is reported to have come from St. Paul, Minn., a year ago.

BARES GRAFTING BY ROUMANIAN STATE OFFICIALS

Writer Shows How Trade Is Run by Bribery.

This is the third of a series of articles by Mr. Rue on conditions in Roumania today.

BY LARRY RUE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BUCHAREST, Roumania, Jan. 17.—The Roumanian administration is an all too apparent fact in Roumania. No one has accused the late Premier Ionel Bratianu of not being honest, nor is there anything to show that his brother, Vintila Bratianu, is not scrupulously honest himself, but scandal upon scandal has followed in the wake of the government to the extent that the accusation of the opposition at the recent budget debate in the chamber, that about $20,000,000 had disappeared from the treasury, excited no surprise.

Can't Trace Expenses.
Roumania was occupied by Germany during the war and this is an extensive circumstance, but financial experts, international or Roumanian, are still unable to trace the expenditures of the Roumanian government during that period, outside of the $60,000,000 taken to Moscow to prevent confiscation by the Germans. The department of the interior once decided to investigate graft in the ministry of communications. A detective, representing himself as a merchant, went to the railroad agent in a small town and asked for a freight car to transport some supplies to the seaport. He was told there was no freight car, but finally after offering 10,000 lei ($2,000) tip, he got a freight car, signed the agreement for evidence and then, displaying his badge, said: "You see, I am a detective. I shall report you."

Bares Graft Higher Up.
The agent replied: "When you report me, will you please ask the man to whom you report to return to me the 200,000 lei ($40,000) I paid him for my position."
"O, I didn't know that," the detective said, "anyhow you give me back the money I paid for the freight car, and we will let the matter drop."
"No, that money is mine, you will have to take the freight car," the agent said.

An American exporter hired a freight car from Bucharest to Constantinople and had to bribe not only the man who got the car for him but even the brakemen and locomotive engineers, who insisted it would make the load too heavy for the locomotive. Banks are collecting as high as 8 per cent a month interest on loans guaranteed by absolute security. Taxes are imposed without any consideration of prosperity. People at Kishineff, Chernovitch, and cities of Transylvania, said police would come to their houses, demand a certain tax and if this sum was not paid take a view of furniture, jewelry or some other movable property. One man in Kishineff, who was taxed about $1 and who was unable to pay, was deprived of his watch and chain. A manufacturer said every time he made an improvement on his factory, a special tax was levied against him. He said he was forced to pay about $50 a year graft to the assessing department.

BOLD WOMAN AND THREE MEN.
Three men and a woman, all colored, were led to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to commit robbery. They are Gus Johnson, Robert Rogers, Albert Henderson and Maria Williams. The woman was 41, 5'2", 120 lbs.

"That sore throat was no joke—"

"My doctor said, 'Keep up the Formamint treatment. Formamint releases one of the best germ-killing agents we have over the throat tissues—and is absolutely harmless...'"
"In a few days throat was O.K.—tough gone—grouch gone..."
At the first sign of raspiness—soothing Formamint. These tablets can be taken anywhere—continuously. One every hour to treat sore throat, as a preventive one every 2 hours. Test Formamint yourself. All druggists.

ITALIAN GUNS ON CAMELS CRUSH ARABS OF LIBIA

Kill 100 and Capture 500 in Battle.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright, 1928, By The Chicago Tribune.)
ROME, Jan. 17.—Military operations have just been successfully completed in the Italian colonies of Libya which have cleared the interior of the hostile Mogarba tribes and opened up safe land communications between the provinces of Cyrenaica and Tripolitania, according to a communiqué from the ministry of colonies this evening.

The operations, which began Jan. 1 and lasted two weeks, were carried out with the greatest secrecy. Military posts now have been established far into the Libyan interior and the occupation of this section has been made permanently safe.

The Fascist government already had carried out several military operations against Libyan tribesmen along the coast, but in order to establish overland connections between Cyrenaica and Tripolitania, further operations south of Murata became necessary. The region lying south of what is known as the great Sire was infested with numerous and warlike tribes, who robbed caravans and interrupted travel. Gen. de Bono, governor of Tripolitania, and Gov. Teruzzi of Cyrenaica, were summoned to Rome by Premier Benito Mussolini in November, when plans were laid for the campaign.

On Jan. 1 two columns started simultaneously from Nufila in Tripolitania and from Agredabia in Cyrenaica and converged southward, clearing the entire country of tribesmen, and capturing an enormous amount of material and animals, especially camels, cows, oxen and sheep.

Five hundred prisoners were taken, while the number of dead tribesmen actually counted on the fields of battle amounted to more than 100, in addition to those killed by airplanes in the operations still further south. The Italian forces lost no men, though thirteen were wounded. The movement was largely carried out with airplanes and machine guns mounted on camels.

The newly opened up country is expected to be used by Premier Mussolini for agricultural colonies, thus affording a new outlet for immigration.

U. S. Indians Honor Friend of Red Man in German City
DRESDEN, Germany, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Citizens of Dresden had a thrill today when a troupe of Oklahoma Indians in full war paint and tribal regalia wended their way to the Fedebeul cemetery where Karl May, Germany's Fenimore Cooper, is buried.

A speaker pointed out that May's love for the red man was so great he wrote sixty-five books about him. The Indians then struck up a funeral dirge and Chief Big Snake deposited a wreath on the tomb.

8 JURORS OUT OF 250 MEN FOR HILL TRIAL; CALL MORE

Ottawa, Ill., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Judge Joe A. Davis today summoned a fifth venire of men to report in the Circuit court tomorrow for possible service in the Hill murder trial. This makes a total of 200 veniremen up to the present time.

When the fourth venire was exhausted today only eight jurors had been sworn. Three others had been tentatively accepted, but may be excused. Most of the 250 men who have been examined for jury service had formed opinions in the case.

The first panel of four jurors sworn in for service were selected two weeks ago and the second panel ten days ago. These men have been in custody since they were sworn in although they are taken on walks around town, permitted to bowl, and to attend church services.

No one is safe!

Banker, baker or society woman—no matter who we are—every one of us may offend unknowingly.

Frank facts... about body odor!

IF YOU have ever noticed body odor in another—and who hasn't—you know how it makes you feel toward the offender.

Respect, friendship, love—all wither before this grave offense.

Yet we are all subject to body odor. And body odor is more noticeable in winter because we're indoors more—in badly ventilated rooms, stuffy theatres, crowded street cars.

We'd die if we didn't perspire. Even on cold days—our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste each 24 hours.

Why we cannot tell when we offend

This body waste, in perspiration form, whether you see it or not, is odorless. And it plays no favorites. Bank presidents and laborers, society leaders and servants—all may offend unless they take precautions. And the pity of it is that we may be guilty—and not know it!

For when an odor becomes familiar, our own sense of smell becomes desensitized to it. That's why fastidious people—who think they are safe—may often offend most.

Don't take chances

Yet no one need risk embarrassing body odor. Just wash and bathe often with Lifebuoy, the deodorizing toilet soap.

The same antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores.

Now, too, how clear and fresh this antiseptic Lifebuoy lather keeps complexions. No wonder Lifebuoy is the favorite toilet soap of millions.

Note its hygienic scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's clean scent, which proves Lifebuoy purifies, yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing.

Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

AFFIRMS Mr. Peter Silverman of the Bargain Typewriter House, 843 West Madison street. And so another Chicago business man endorses Tribune Want Ads' unflinching productiveness as a substantial foundation for a business structure!

Experience has thoroughly equipped Mr. Silverman to judge. For few projects are as dependent on advertising as the used and rebuilt typewriter business. And before concentrating the majority of his advertising in The Tribune Want Ad Section, Mr. Silverman made repeated tests. The outcome of these can best be expressed in his own comparison.

"We used the second largest morning paper and the largest afternoon paper without a single response. Compare this with The Tribune! Here a single want ad sold nine typewriters for us in one day, a short time ago. It is on the unflinching response that greets our ads in The Tribune Want Ad Section that we base our successful business."

Hundreds of business men... thousands of individuals have testified to the unequalled productiveness of Tribune Want Ads. If occasion arises for you to sell anything... service or commodity... profit by their collective experience and use the same medium that served them supremely well! Call—

BOWLER REPLIES TO OPPONENTS OF NEW PARKING BAN

Finds They Had Own Curbs Kept Clear Before.

Replying to the charges of Ald. John J. Coughlin of the First ward that the new parking law has injured business, Ald. Thomas J. Bowler (1st), chairman of the city council traffic committee, yesterday asserted that loop merchants who are demanding repeal of the ordinance merely wish the city to furnish free storage space for automobiles in front of other business houses.

"Most of the opponents of the law always have had 'No parking' signs in front of their places of business," Ald. Bowler pointed out. "One, for example, is situated on a boulevard. Parking has never been allowed on the boulevard and was not allowed for fifty feet from the traffic light on the intersecting street."

"Shun Nuisance Themselves." "These opponents are apparently willing that automobiles should park in front of other stores, but do not want the nuisance themselves. Many of them are on Wabash avenue, where parking has not been allowed for years."

"Others who are complaining loudly obtained permission from the city council to put up 'No parking' signs in front of their stores."

Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer, was instructed to gather figures supporting the alderman's statements and present them at the committee hearing Friday.

Repeats Demands.
Ald. Coughlin yesterday repeated his demands that the parking can be removed. He advocated a restoration of the half hour parking privilege in the loop, coupled with a rigid provision directed against "parking hogs."

He insisted, he said, that the cars of those who violate the half hour parking provision be impounded by the police, stored at the owner's expense, and that a special police detail for this purpose be created.

"If we eliminate these hogs who park their cars all day long we will get as far as we do with the no parking ordinance and without hurting the downtown business interests," the alderman said.

HENRY DOYLE OF
C. A. A. LEAVES
$100,000 ESTATE

For ten years Henry Doyle, gracious white haired manager, was in charge of the ladies' dining room of the Chicago Athletic association, 15 South Michigan boulevard. He was missed by all the club members when he died on Jan. 9 at St. Luke's hospital following an operation for appendicitis.

Yesterday officials of the public administrator's office opened a vault in a loop bank, a key to which had been found in Doyle's effects. When the officials finished sorting the contents of the vault they had listed stocks and bonds and titles to real estate valued at more than $100,000.

According to five brothers and sisters who are claiming the estate, Doyle made many fortunate investments in securities and real estate, but the extent of his fortune was not known. He was 55 years old and a bachelor, living a secluded life. He did not leave a will and the estate will be distributed equally among his relatives.

CITIZENS TO AIR THEIR VIEWS ON CRIME TONIGHT

Cause, Status, Cure
Up for Debate.

Is crime increasing in Chicago, and if so, what can be done about it? Are the state's attorney and the commissioner of police doing their duty?

These are the main questions to which answers will be sought at a town meeting of representative citizens which will be held tonight at the Hotel La Salle, with Elias H. Strawn, president of the American Bar association, in the chair.

Seeks Public Interest.

"The meeting is intended to arouse the citizens to the crime situation in Chicago," said Mr. Strawn yesterday. "It seems that we have acquired a bad reputation in comparison with other cities in this regard. It is time we found out whether such a reputation is justified, and if so what can be done about it. If the officials are doing their duty they should be assured of the backing of the citizens."

The idea of the meeting grew out of a small luncheon gathering recently and was suggested by Mr. Strawn. Members of the Industrial club, the Commercial club, the mayor's committee and other organizations have been invited.

Ten minute talks will be made by T. E. Donnelly, chairman of the Citizens' committee; James A. Patten of the Citizens' committee; Edwin W. Sims, organizer of the Chicago crime commission; Edward E. Gore, former president of the crime commission; Joseph R. Noel, chairman of the Committee of Fifteen; Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes; State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, and Judge William V. Brothers, chief justice of the Criminal court.

Study of Crime Survey Reports.

The meeting will have the advantage of the recent report made by Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the crime commission, but will lack the information in several other surveys into various aspects of crime in this city which have been under way for months but which are not ready for publication.

One of these is a report on organized crime in this city which is being written by Judge Andrew Bruce of the Northwestern University Law school upon facts presented to him by the investigators of the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice. A comprehensive study of the way crime is handled in the courts is also being prepared by this organization, showing just how all cases are disposed of.

TESTIFIES WINGE THREATENED DRY AGENT IN RAID

Testimony that Albert K. Winge, former police lieutenant, on trial with fourteen others on charges of a $1,000,000 beer smuggling conspiracy, threatened to kill Joseph Prendergast, former prohibition agent, who led the raid on five carloads of beer, was given yesterday by A. W. Leigh, former prohibition agent, who took part in the raid at Morton Grove.

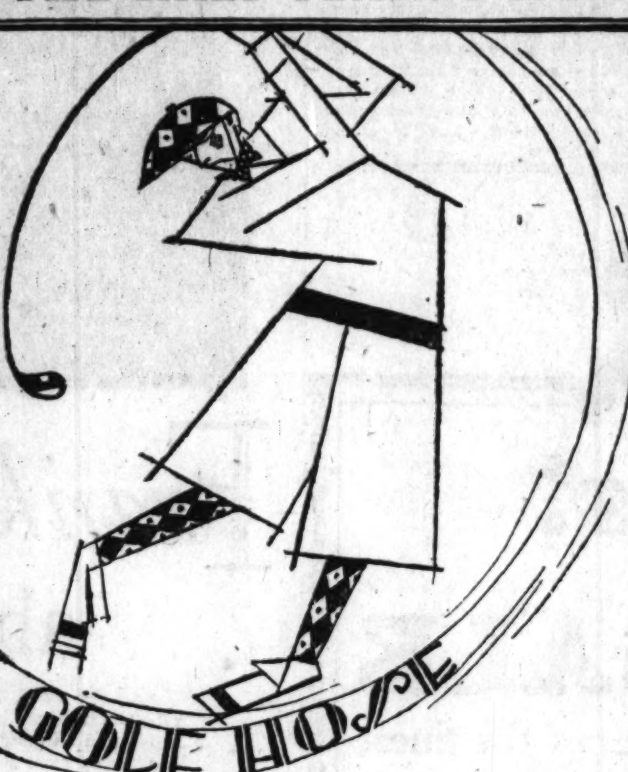

Leigh testified that Prendergast had a gun pointed at Winge and put it back in his holster when Winge made the alleged threat. Prendergast testified on Monday that Winge had not threatened him.

William Hagel, another former prohibition agent who participated in the raid, appearing as a government witness, testified that the beer seized had not been labeled and he was not sure the samples produced in court came from the same shipment. The case is on trial before United States Judge Wilkerson.

30 Prospects Bid Against Each Other for this Business Chance

MEN, men with money to invest, anxiously seeking a chance to get into business for themselves... they are the ones who scan so carefully every announcement of a business for sale in Tribune Want Ads and, when a good offer is made through this medium, bid against each other for a chance of getting it.

A gasoline and oil station located on a good street is a profitable investment—so when T. E. McArdle advertised his filling station at 7284 South Chicago avenue for sale the results he got are not to be wondered at. Thirty men, each anxious to buy his station, communicated with him immediately, and he was able to make a deal in which he dictated his own terms.

And so another business man adds his testimony to the scores that have enthusiastically endorsed Tribune Want Ads as the surest, quickest way to sell a business profitably. [Chicago Tribune] Washington, D. C. (AP)—Attempts of radicals and westerners to force a downward tariff came to naught today, by a vote of 74 to 26 in the Senate. The Senate passed the Representative of Tennessee, Democratic house, precipitated the demand that the tariff be lowered, a mere expression of sentiment in favor of a revision of tariff rates, which the house had passed.

Speaker Longworth moved that the resolution be laid on the table, which is charged with the tariff legislation. The Senate ruled out of order the resolution of Representative Tilton (R), Republican leader, and resolution.

Six Louisiana Democrats, Pennsylvania Democrats, the Republican major resolution, which has been in effect since the tariff act of 1913, will be necessary to force the house action.

ATTEMPT TO CUT TARIFF RATES IS BALKED IN HOUSE

Radicals Lose as Resolution Is Tabled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Attempts of southern Democrats and western radical Republicans to force a downward revision of the tariff came to naught today when the house, by a vote of 183 to 164, tabled the McMaster resolution which the senate passed yesterday.
Representative Garrett (Dem., Tenn.), Democratic leader in the house, precipitated the fight when he demanded that the McMaster resolution, a mere expression of the senate's sentiment in favor of downward revision of tariff rates, should be considered by the house in committee of the whole.
Speaker Longworth overruled the motion and immediately ordered that the resolution be referred to the ways and means committee, which is charged with the framing of tariff legislation. This motion was likewise ruled out of order, and Representative Tilson (Rep., Conn.), the Republican leader, moved to table the resolution.
Six Louisiana Democrats and one Maryland Democrat voted with the Republican majority to table the resolution, which has the effect of killing it inasmuch as a vote to reconsider will be necessary to bring it before the house again.
Twelve radical Republicans—Representatives Beck, Browne, Frear, Kadane, Lampert, Nelson, Peavey, Schafer

SENATE COMMITTEE VOTES TO POSTPONE ACTION ON TAX BILL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Postponement of tax legislation as desired by the administration, was agreed today by the senate finance committee. The action was taken by a strict party vote, 11 Republicans favoring delay and 9 Democrats urging immediate consideration of the bill passed by the house before the holidays.
The committee gave precedence to the house alien property bill, which will be taken up for consideration next Monday.
Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the finance committee, presented the administration view that action should be delayed until after March 15, when it will be possible to determine more accurately the amount of revenues and expenditures during the coming year.
Senator Simmons (Dem., N. C.), ranking minority member of the finance committee, insisted upon immediate action.
Senator Harrison (Dem., Miss.), brought up the question of tax legislation postponement on the floor of the senate, accusing Senator Smoot of having changed his position since last summer, when he promised speedy enactment of a tax reduction bill.
In the house Representative Garner (Dem., Tex.) renewed his attacks upon Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for delaying tax legislation. Representative Green (Rep., Ia.), chairman of the house ways and means committee, replied to Mr. Garner denying that the controversial section relating to consolidated tax returns of affiliated corporations, was the cause of the postponement.

and Schneider, all of Wisconsin; Christopherson (S. D.), Clague (Minn.), Sinclair (N. D.), and Representative Kvale, Farmer-Labor (Minn.) voted with the Democrats against shelving the proposal.

HERTZ RETURNS TO PRESIDENCY OF YELLOW CAB

John Hertz yesterday announced his resignation as chairman of the board of the Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company. It is understood that he will be succeeded by John A. Ritchie, new vice chairman of the board.

At the same time Mr. Hertz also announced that he had again taken the presidency of the Yellow Cab company, made vacant by the death of Charles W. Gray. Mr. Gray was killed on Christmas day when he was thrown from his horse in Jackson park.

Mr. Hertz stated that his retirement from the chairmanship of the Yellow Truck and Coach board was in line with his announcement when that company merged with General Motors that he was "easing out of business to take a long vacation." While the death of Mr. Gray has changed Mr. Hertz's retirement plans for the time, he explained that his return as active head of the cab company is only temporary.

It was announced that Thomas B. Hogan had been elected vice president and manager of the cab company. Mr. Hogan was Mr. Gray's assistant.

At the annual election of the stockholders of the Chicago Yellow Cab Company, Inc., held at Portland, Me., on Jan. 11, Albert D. Lasker and Alfred Ettinger were elected to fill the vacancies on the board of directors. The following officers were elected: John Hertz, president and chairman of the board; Charles A. McCulloch, S. H. Kesner, and Thomas B. Hogan, vice presidents; Edward N. D'Ancona, secretary and general counsel; Alton N. Huttel, treasurer; Benjamin Samuels and S. H. Kesner, assistant secretaries; W. D. Cook, assistant treasurer.

MOSCOW DENIES IT "SENTENCED" POPE TO DEATH

The soviet news agency Tass, said today that reports published in foreign countries that the Vatican had received notification of a "sentence of death" passed by the soviet government on Pope Pius and alleged to have been signed by Stalin, soviet dictator, are totally unfounded and regarded as a "malignant joke."

Dispatches from Rome on Jan. 12 quoted the newspaper Brillante as saying that a "condemnation" of Pope Pius had arrived at the Vatican in the form of a registered letter from Moscow, but no mention was made of a "sentence of death" as in the above dispatch.

Brillante said that the condemnation of the pontiff was for having "favored the anti-bolshevik movement with funds."

TROTSKY URGES FOREIGN REDS TO AID "COMEBACK"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 17.—Two remarkable letters published in the Moscow Pravda and signed by Leon Trotsky, the former soviet commissar, who is now on his way to exile in Wexley on the border between Turkistan and China, explain the reasons for the conflict between himself and Dictator Joseph Stalin, to foreign communists. The latter are urged to send delegates to the coming congress of the soviet trade unions in Moscow on March 15 with speeches advocating Trotsky's return to power.

Commissar Stalin, according to M. Trotsky, is determined that the communist party shall henceforth dictate the policies of communism and the communist international, while the former war commissar says the international, the more important body of the two, should control the Russian communist party.

Discussing M. Trotsky's letters, Pravda relates how the Cheka (state police) found them sewn into the clothing of a communist who had received permission to make a journey abroad to transact government business. The authenticity of the signatures of Trotsky, Radek and Smilga is not doubted.

THE love songs of romantic Mexico wing their way to your radio horn tonight. Alfonso and Sofia Pedrosa sing a group of basso and mezzo-soprano solos and duets at 10:30, all of them the amorous songs of the Latin races. Another Mexican artist bids for your favor at 9:30—Flavio Plasencia, the lyric baritone whose voice is so dear to thousands of listeners. His program will consist entirely of request selections. Of course, that means "La Paloma" for one!

Sofia and Alfonso Pedrosa

AND talk about "blues"! Here's what the Ipana Troubadours do at 8 o'clock: "Blue Heaven," "Blue River," "St. Louis Blues," "Blue Danube," "Who's the Blue Now?" "Shaking the Blues Away"—that isn't half of them, but from azure to indigo they're all rather well—BLUE! And after this colorful riot the Goodrich Zippers.

ARE you following the adventures of Sam 'n' Henry? Since these two blots of ink left Birmingham life has been just one open pitfall after another. Tune in at 10:10 for the most popular comic strip radio has ever known.

Senor Flavio Plasencia

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: An Expanding Business

Elmer Encorés Cossack Chorus for Fine Job

Likes the Russian Songs
Better Each Time.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Eleven o'clock, and the half hour concert by Sergei Sogoloff's now well known Russian Cossack chorus has come to a close at W-G-N.

The radio audience has previously heard this chorus from WEBB, and I raved over its singing in this column. I heard it in person at their concert at the Studebaker theater on Oct. 9, and I was fascinated. Those who failed to hear this chorus last night missed a very great treat, also the greatest treat on the evening's many interesting and meritorious list of concert programs.

Fortunately this chorus sings the same selections concert after concert, fortunately, because increased familiarity means greater appreciation of the musically strong and strange characteristics of each selection.

Among those sung: "Cossack's Prayer Before the Battle," on repeated hearings becomes a sterner and more terrible; "A Cossack Party" becomes a wilder riot.

"My Wild Irish Rose," tenor solo, with a humming background, becomes more weird, and in this piece the deep-toned basses give out a prolonged pedal note on low D. "Snowstorm" becomes a more marvelous picture of cold, freezing terror and musical fascination—low C sharp was touched repeatedly, and low C at least once.

All sung without accompaniment, of course, and the pitch was maintained without deviation from first to last note. Through it all ran that typically cold and shrill, chilling, agonizing Russian music tone that is not of our clime and therefore the more fascinating.

Now, in a concord of harmony, for the choicest musical radio hour I have heard in many a day—the 8 to 9 program from New York, in which Miss Kathleen Stewart, pianist, and a full-toned symphony orchestra played the first two movements of Saint-Saens' familiar piano Concerto in G minor.

Miss Stewart played this with marvelous breadth, spirited to a degree, and with expressive shadings.

The orchestra's playing of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" contained an element of novelty, for half of it was played by an orchestra of eighteen pieces, and the other half played by an orchestra of thirty-six pieces.

The audience was requested to state which sized orchestra they believed had produced the better results.

An hour and a half program by Miriam Fairbank, soprano, and the Ruth Ray string quartet, WMAQ, 8 to 9:30, was another important event. Complete quartets of contrasting moods and qualities were played as were several shorter pieces.

DOCTORS MAY REMEDY ILLS WITH RADIO WAVES SOON, CANADIAN SAYS

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 17.—(UP)—

Long meter ether waves, originally harnessed for radio, may prove a boon to medical science in the treatment of convalescent patients, Prof. J. C. McLennan of the University of Toronto said today.

Experiments now under way, he told members of the Canadian club, indicate the possibility that by application of the waves introduced into the blood any known treatment required to destroy disease-forming organisms can be attained without danger of reaction on the patient.

The danger of collapse after the crisis in pneumonia, brought on by inhaled waves, may be overcome if it is found that the waves can be controlled satisfactorily, he said.

He explained that the discovery resulted from experiments with long meter waves for radio purposes. It was found that operators exposed to the waves experienced a sudden rise in body temperature.

ARREST 7 AS 3 YOUNG GIRLSBARE CAREERS OF VICE

Seven men, charged with leading three young girls who are residents of Downers Grove into a life of vice were arrested by DuPage county authorities yesterday. Warrants have been issued for two others.

As a result of the disclosures made by the girls, who are 13, 14 and 15 years old, State's Attorney Chaney Reed announced that all dance halls and roadhouses in the county whose proprietors could not prove them orderly and moral would be closed. One of the trio is to become a mother. All were frequenters of dance places in and near Downers Grove.

The men under arrest are Charles Bitney, owner of a taxi business at Downers Grove; George Liebenow, Frank Priemel, Ed McDuff, Joseph Solitt, Claude McClerman and Robert Clineck.

Wilson Leads Louisiana Primary for Governor

New Orleans, La., Jan. 17.—(UP)—

Congressman Riley J. Wilson of the Fifth Louisiana congressional district was leading his two opponents for the Democratic nomination for governor in today's primary by pluralities of more than 14,000 each with approximately one-sixth of the 1,632 precincts in the state reported tonight. His opponents are Gov. O. H. Simpson and Huey P. Long.

Fish Devour Father and Four Daughters in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 17.—

[U. P.]—A father and four daughters were devoured by piranhas, a species of voracious fish, when they fell into the San Francisco river due to the collapse of a bridge, according to reports today from Traipu, in the Brazilian state of Alagoas.

CHAOS MAY CAUSE AMERICA TO LOSE RADIO CHANNELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Nearly two hundred representatives of newspapers, ships, communication companies and amateurs appeared today before the federal radio commission and pleaded for the allotment of channels between 10 and 200 meters.

During the appeals, officials of the army and navy revealed that unless allotments are made immediately in the 3,000 channels open to use in the short wave spectrum the United States is in grave danger of losing a large share of these channels, of which there is a pressing need.

Chaos May Lose Bands for U. S.

Under the international convention the bands between 10 and 200 meters are open to the world. Other nations already have licensed several waves in this class, and many license applications are impending abroad.

Unfortunately the emergency finds the radio situation in the United States in a confused condition, owing to the failure of the senate to confirm three of the four presidential nominations to the federal radio commission.

You Meet Septics in the movies!

There is a certain fastidiousness which habits of cleanliness cannot achieve alone. The person who sometimes suspect of carelessness may have washed within the hour.

If you are a septic, soap and water will not solve the difficulty. Nor will any refreshing neutralizing unpleasant vapors of the body, or the breath for any length of time.

Nobody is septic by nature. It is a condition anyone can correct. Just a few days are sufficient to take the taint out of perspiration, and render one's breath as pure as can be; and this perfect personal cleanliness made permanent. Ask any doctor—or nurse—about calcium.

You may not know whether you are a septic. Try some calcium wafers, and see if there is any stagnant matter in the system, everything will be gently but sweetly and clean. Your skin will be less greasy, color improved; calcium correction cures red, inflamed eyes and whitens teeth! And you will need no harsh cathartics from the time you have learned to prevent even semi-constipation by just occasionally taking a tiny calcium tablet.

A five-day test will prove to you very conclusively the system's need for calcium, and the decided benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them—the test size for pocket is 10c. Or the family size, 60c.

A Letter to Bremer-Tully from Civil Service Commissioner Denmark

Bremer Tully Mfg. Company
520 S. Canal Street
Chicago, Illinois

Gentlemen:

In all my experience with radio I certainly have never met the equal of the new B-T Electric Counterphase.

You can well imagine my surprise on hooking up your 8-17 model to find that the first static to come, in was KDKA Pittsburgh. Chicago stations were, of course, operating at the same time. The "Little Symphony Orchestra" was playing and the reproduction was simply marvelous.

The tone quality is wonderful, which I attribute partly to the B-T speaker, but the performance of the set itself is deserving of such great praise that I feel I should tell you how well pleased I am and how much better results are secured than what I expected.

I had no difficulty in tuning in other stations outside of Chicago, such as Detroit, Shreveport, La., and others, during the same first evening.

You are to be congratulated on building such remarkable apparatus as the Electric Counterphase and the B-T Speaker.

Yours truly,

said. "No liquor was found at their party. They did not even have the customary set-ups such as ginger ale and ice on the table. There were a great many persons present at the Club Bagdad in addition to the students, and it was from these persons that the large quantity of liquor which was seized by the agents was taken.

"There were some drunken young men present, but they were in no way connected with the school party," Mr. Jamie stated that the dry agents had acted because they received a complaint signed "A law abiding citizen" stated as a parent of one of the students to be at the party and derstood that most of the party would have intoxicating liquor.

SEEKS FEDERAL AID FOR SHIPS PRIVATELY OWNED

I. A. Campbell Talks to Rotarians Here.

How congress, through the enactment of legislation now before it, can provide the aid necessary to place the American merchant shipping on a successful, permanent basis in foreign trade, was told yesterday by Ira A. Campbell, general counsel of the American Steamship Owners' association, at the Rotary club luncheon at the Hotel Sherman.

After giving the history of the slow decline of the American merchant marine since the war and outlining its causes, he said:

"We now have come to the point where we must choose one of two courses: one will lead to government ownership and failure; the other to private ownership and success."

Wants Government Help, Too. "The former will be at the sole expense of the government; the latter at the cost of private capital, with government aid at a lower cost than will be entailed in any plan of government ownership. The issue is now squarely presented by legislation pending in congress."

A bill is before the senate which contemplates government ownership. Mr. Campbell argued that the government cannot obtain the services of the most able and experienced men to operate its ships. Comparative efficiencies definitely can be established, he said, by the results of the operations of the essential trade service before and after their sale by the shipping board.

Cites Higher U. S. Costs.

The principal obstacles to a merchant marine under private ownership, he stated, are the excess costs of operating American ships over the costs of foreign vessels and the excess costs of constructing ships in American shipyards over the costs of building similar vessels in foreign yards.

"These differentials must be met by the government," he said, "whether the ships are privately owned or government owned. These can and should be met by aid given through long term mail contracts and appropriations for a naval reserve."

Bills to that end have been introduced in the house.

Women Taxi Drivers to Start Trips Next Saturday

Women drivers, clad in sky-blue uniforms and driving taxicabs painted blue, white, gray, and gold, are a novelty to be offered Chicago next Saturday, according to an announcement last night by William Wainer, garage owner. The new cab company will be known as the Blue Bird Cab company with headquarters at 3727 Broadway. More than 150 women responded to advertisements for women drivers. Driving ability and good looks won out for the first three who will venture upon the street Saturday. They will work during the day only at first, it was announced.

LABOR WILL ASK LAWMAKERS TO BAR INJUNCTIONS

Miami, Fla., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Plans for organized labor's fight during the present session of congress for legislative protection against injunctions as strike breaking agencies were laid today by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and were announced by President William Green. Acting on instructions from last year's convention the council agreed to call a conference in Washington of all international unions on strike legislation.

Telegraphic instructions also were sent to labor representatives in Washington to arrange conferences as soon as possible with senate committees on various bills dealing with the situation. The council's action followed closely a denial from Mr. Green of a report that hope virtually had been abandoned for legislative relief at the present congressional session.

"We have been promised a vote at this session on strike injunction legislation," he said, "and we have every reason to hope for favorable action." The principal fight will be waged around the Shipstead bill, it was indicated by Mr. Green, who said that it embodied the federation's principal demands and had been approved by the organization. The measure seeks to limit the rights of equity courts.

Three Year Rule

The bone of contention between the two service schools is around Navy's demand that its cadets must have completed three years of high school before entering the academy.

Although explaining that the Navy's demand is not a resumption of the old rule, which required that cadets must have completed three years of high school before entering the academy, the Navy officials are adamant in their position.

No Overtures

Naval academy authorities New York last week-er with other college football teams, but Commander Ingram, head of the academy, is not in favor of the athletic breach.

For more than three years the Navy has been in a deadlock with the Army over the question of whether the naval academy should be scheduled in the event of a final acceptance of the other than to say that a decision would not be made until the latter part of the year.

Prospects of the Army's demands of the Navy on conditions, thereby patching differences, were not in the air tonight.

The Annapolis statement that the Navy would be left "reasonable time" in the Army changed its attitude after the situation, according to high officials, was discussed.

CHICAGO MAKES BID FOR 1933 OLYMPICS

NAVY HOLDS NOV. 24 GRID DATE OPEN FOR ARMY

HOPES CADETS WILL ADOPT
3 YEAR RULEWest Point Granted
Time to Consider.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 17.—(AP)—West

Point still has an opportunity to sign the contract for an Army-Navy game next fall and the date, Nov. 24, which had been scheduled for the gridiron classic, will be kept open for a "reasonable time."

In the event Army authorities agree to the game, Commander Jonas Ingram, director of athletics at the naval academy, announced tonight.

Although the military academy officials immediately refused to accept eligibility conditions under which Navy wants the game to be played, the midshipmen will schedule another leading institution for a contest which will be played at Franklin field, Philadelphia.

Commander Ingram said.

The three year rule is issue.

The bone of contention between the two service schools has centered around Navy's demand that Army adopt eligibility rules which do not permit athletic competition by students who have had more than three years varsity team experience.

Although explaining that there had been no resumption of parleys between Army and Navy officials regarding the controversy which resulted in the break, since Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, naval academy superintendent, conferred with Maj. Gen. E. B. Winans, West Point superintendent, on Jan. 7, Commander Ingram emphasized that the "feeling between officials of the two schools has been most cordial."

Commander Ingram refused to comment on the institution which would be scheduled in the event Army did not finally accept terms for the game other than to say that a definite announcement would not be made in the matter until the latter part of February.

No Overtures Made.

Naval academy authorities were in New York last week-end conferring with other college football coaches, but Commander Ingram said that no overtures which might tend to heal the athletic breach were made to or by West Point officials at that time. For more than three hours today Commander Ingram was closeted with the naval academy academic board, then the Army-Navy athletic controversy was discussed, which resulted in the announcement that the football date would be kept open for Army to sign the contract under the terms which Navy asks.

MATTER ENDED, CADETS SAY

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Prospects of the Army yielding to the demands of the Navy on eligibility conditions, thereby patching up football differences, were not promising in academy circles tonight.

The Annapolis statement saying the bid date would be left open for a "reasonable time" in the event the Army changed its attitude fails to alter the situation, according to persons close to high officials at the military academy.

It was pointed out that as far as the Army was concerned relations on the gridiron ended with the conference between Admiral Nulton and Maj. Gen. Winans on Jan. 7.

THE GUMPS—SURPRISE! SURPRISE!

Dartmouth Wants Purple
Game at Soldiers' Field

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Harry Heneage, supervisor of athletics at Dartmouth, arrived in Chicago yesterday to make final arrangements for the intersectional football game between Dartmouth and Northwestern here on November 24.

The Dartmouth official was called out of the city and the meeting postponed until tomorrow, when all details of the contest will be arranged, according to Heneage.

One of the propositions which Heneage intends to put before Wilson is the playing of the game at Soldiers' field instead of Dyche stadium.

Heneage asserted that demand of Dartmouth alumni and their friends in the middle west would fill the Purple stands, and there are thousands of others who will want to go the struggle.

Big Ten Must O. K. Site.

In order to play the game at Soldiers' field Northwestern must secure consent of other members of the Big Ten. Western conference rules make it imperative for all football games to be played on home fields unless permission is granted by the conference.

We Almost Weep at the Memories.

Dear Harvey: "I see the papers, as Mr. Dooley would say, that Chicago is to have another international exposition in 1933. I have no objection to the enterprise but it occurred to me that an exposition of this magnitude, to be a financial success, should have a few places here and there where one could sit behind a stein of lager and listen to good music.

You remember the Midway at the world's fair, do you not? "Old Vienna," the "German Village," and dozens of other concessions were strewn along the Midway where the Wurlburg frowed uninterrupted. You surely have not forgotten those delightful resorts, have you, Harvey? The German building, at the extreme east end of the exposition grounds and the "White Horse Inn" at the southern extremity, also dispensed the foamy nectar which, it is said, was invented by a gent named Gumbriaus.

What kind of Midway will they have at the coming exposition? A Midway without "Old Vienna," would be a misnomer. O, for some more night in "Alt Wien," listening to the Tyroleans singing "Der Wasserfall."

BOYS TO SKATE
IN TRIBUNE RACE
TRIALS SATURDAY2,800 Entered in Annual Derbies.

Because of the many entries for the boys' junior and juvenile races, two of the feature events of THE TRIBUNE'S twelfth annual silver skates derby on the west lagoon in Washington park on Saturday and Sunday, preliminary trials in these two derbies will be held Saturday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

Although a large entry has been received for the intermediate derby, it will be held Sunday afternoon.

Impossible to hold trials in this race on Saturday, because many contestants cannot get away from their places of employment. Trials in this race will start promptly at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when trials and finals in all other races will be held.

In the boys' juvenile and junior races one round of preliminaries and two semi-final rounds will be held. This will make it imperative for skaters who qualify to race at least twice on the week-end. The grand semi-final and final will be held Sunday.

Report Before 1:30.

Boys who race in the two events Saturday must report for their numbers not later than 1:30 o'clock. Numbers will be given out after 12:30 on Sunday and contestants are requested to report earlier if possible. As soon as skaters call for their numbers they will be placed in heats by Edward Malke, chief clerk of the course, who is president of the Western Skating association. Number clerks will be ordered not to issue numbers after the hours set for closing.

Harry Berr, chairman of the registration committee of the Western Skating association, who has been tabulating the entries, announces close to 2,800 boys and girls have sent in entries. This is larger than a year ago when more than 2,500 were entered. The largest entry was received for the boys' juvenile, junior, and intermediate derbies. The boys' senior attracted large entry, and so did the junior girls. The entry for the senior girls' race was about the same as in previous years.

Distribute Free Programs.

The entries are now in the hands of the printer and programs will be distributed free for charge on the two skating days. The complete list of entries together with the numbers the skaters will wear will be published in Saturday and Sunday issues of THE TRIBUNE. Skaters in the boys' races to be held on Saturday will find their names and numbers in Saturday's TRIBUNE, while the others will appear on the following. Contestants are requested to learn their numbers before appearing at the number clerk's table.

New York, Jan. 17.—(Special.)—The stock market gave an exhibition of quiet strength today in which a large number of issues registered gains of from one to two points. Trading, which was 1,536,400 shares, was the lightest since July 8, and the day also brought to a close a run of 43 consecutive 2,000,000 share days on the exchange.

It was evident, according to stock market circles, that the efforts of banking authorities to keep speculation in check were having a constructive effect. At times there was so few securities offered for sale that the ticker wheels stopped for full minutes at a time.

LOREE DEFEATED IN BATTLE OF MILLIONS FOR LEHIGH VALLEY

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A battle of many millions of dollars for control of the Lehigh Valley railroad, an important skirmish in the great general fight over railroad consolidations in the east, was fought out here today and the present Lehigh Valley management won.

Opposed to the Lehigh Valley interests were the group of powerful financial and railroad leaders identified with L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, who has ambitions to create a fifth trunk line from the east to the west. Behind the Lehigh Valley interest stood the houses of Morgan and Drexel & Co., Philadelphia, and leading these interests was E. T. Stotesbury, member of the Morgan and Drexel companies.

The Lehigh Valley management had a majority of only 5,924 shares in a total vote of more than a million. One block of 48,700 shares of common stock, controlled by the Loree group, was thrown out because it was declared that it had been transferred within sixty days of the annual meeting and therefore ineligible for voting purposes. On the other hand, 52,840 shares, controlled by the Loomis interests, were disfranchised on various technicalities.

The incumbent directors and President Loomis were re-elected and two vacancies filled. After it was all over, President Loomis expressed his gratitude for the way his friends stood by him. "The action of the stockholders," he said, "means that I will continue to represent only the Lehigh Valley interests. In future conferences on railroad consolidation I will be absolutely free. I will have no ties. I will be responsible to no one but the stockholders of the Lehigh Valley."

The investment group corporation placed its stock on a $1 yearly basis with the declaration of $1.50 quarterly. An extra dividend of 25 cents a share was declared by the Illinois Pacific Glass company. The Hamilton Brown Shoe company cut its dividend in half with the declaration of 15 cents monthly.

EXPERTS REVIVE ANCIENT WORRY OF GOLD DEFICIT

BY HARPER LEECH.

More has been written about gold in the last four months than in the five ordinary years, a glance at the lines of the financial press and financial pages would indicate. Despite the fact that your Uncle Sam ended 1927 with a net gain of gold imports over exports, in addition to the output of our own mines, some of the experts are reviving the old worry as to whether the world's output of gold will be sufficient in the future as a basis for the vast extended credit structures we may look for, if the world at large fulfills all its present promises of greater wealth production.

It strikes this writer that in the discussion of gold movements the most significant shipments may have had little publicity. The recent inflow of gold from Canada and the reports of folks who have visited the new prospecting regions to the north, which have barely been scratched and only partly mapped by airplane survey, suggest that the world, instead of worrying about a contracting gold base, may possibly be confronted again with a price disturbance such as these which followed the opening up of Peru and Mexico in the sixteenth century—California and Australia in the mid-Victorian age, and the Rand later.

Any marked appreciation of gold will be followed by tremendous expansion of production. We may expect more and more gold as a by-product of copper and other mining, and our whole want to full of low grade ores which may at any moment become workable through the advance of electrical, chemical and physical science.

The incentive to produce gold grows with every decline in the commodity price level, and gentlemen who forecast the future of gold on the basis of the records of high price years and war periods may be overlooking that fact.

The other side of the picture has been presented by F. V. Burt of the Bankers' Trust company, who shows that the present annual requirement of the world for new gold to maintain reserves against expanding bank deposits and currency is $225,000,000, and in recent years the annual average of gold taken from the mines in recent years has been only $245,000,000.

The industrial arts take $28,000,000 per year, and Hindus and other orientals put about $100,000,000 in their hoards. Roman civilization knew how to deal with that original hoarding habit and periodically yanked it out and put it back to work, but these are softer times.

The real safety factor is the fact that there are in the world today, outside of gold either not working as credit or reserves, or not being used at maximum banking and credit efficiency. Reserves requirements, even in the more advanced countries are probably excessive also, and with growing world prosperity, confidence and the improvements of

WILSON CO. JOINS LIST REPORTING PROFITS DECLINE

BY O. A. MATHER.

Wilson & Co., the last of the "Big Four" meat packing concerns to issue an annual report, followed the others in having a disappointing year. Volume of sales has almost even with the preceding year, but profits declined sharply.

During the first part of the year pork product prices were on a relatively high level and subsequently they declined steadily, causing inventory losses which could not be overcome in the marketing of these products. President Thomas E. Wilson says: "There was considerable improvement in the later months of the year, but the profitable basis of the year was not maintained. The common stock is in high grade. The preferred is very high grade. We cannot predict the course of the year."

1928 Outlook Favorable.
The outlook is favorable. The South American situation, which has affected adversely for a long time, has now been cleared. Results so far this year reflect profitable operations. We have every reason to feel that this will continue throughout the year. Net profits for the fiscal year ended Oct. 29, 1927, were $147,396, equivalent to 51 cents a share on the $284,000 preferred stock. Dividends on this stock began to accrue at the rate of 7 per cent annually on Nov. 1 under the reorganization plan. No dividends were paid for the eight months ended Oct. 29, 1927, were $1,168,759, equivalent to $11.68 a share on the preferred stock. Since the date of reorganization on March 1, 1926, the company has earned surplus of $2,317,716.

Stock Yards Corporation Formed.
Formation of the General Stock Yards Corporation as a Delaware corporation to acquire a substantial interest in stock yards companies at Fort Worth, Tex., Sioux City, Ia., St. Paul, Minn., Louisville, Ky., and Toronto, Canada, was announced yesterday. The corporation has purchased the interest of Armour & Co. in the Fort Worth stock yards. It was understood the formation of the new corporation resulted from protracted federal litigation which required the packing companies to divest themselves of certain outside stock yard interests. It was said the new corporation is an investment trust and not a holding company, and that it will not control any stock yards.

Trade Shrinkage Shows.
General trade continues to run somewhat below a year ago, according to the railroad movement of commodities. Loadings of revenue freight for the year ended Jan. 7 totaled 754,062 cars. This was an increase of 14,665 cars over the preceding year, but a decline of 78,828 cars from a year ago. Miscellaneous freight and merchandise and less than railroad freight fell off 33,885 and 39,890 cars, respectively, compared with a year ago.

Earnings of Peoples Gas for 1927 Show Increase
The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, which furnishes Chicago with gas, in its consolidated preliminary report for 1927 shows net income of $5,678,263 after depreciation, taxes, interest, and other charges. This represents an increase of $1,114 a share on 500,237 shares, compared with $5,240,524, or $11.23 a share on 462,738 shares earned in 1926. Gas earnings for 1927 were $39,658,954, as compared with $38,885,950 in 1926.

For the three months ended Dec. 31, last, net income after interest, taxes and retirement expenses was $1,523,970, equivalent to $3.05 a share, against $1,092,122, or $2.18 a share, earned in the last quarter of 1926.

National Biscuit.
R. M. L. National Biscuit company reports a balance of $18,777,153 available for dividends after depreciation and reserve for federal taxes for 1927, as compared with $14,674,167 for 1926. This is equal to $1.65 a share on the $7 preferred and $1.11 a share on the $25 par value common stock in 1927, against $1.50 a share on the preferred and $1.32 a share on the common in 1926. Total surplus stock at $21,643,075 at the end of 1927, against $17,792,985 at the close of 1926. Current assets were $20,800,961 and current liabilities $6,148,756 as of Dec. 31, 1927. This leaves net working capital of $24,652,205, which compares with $24,867,360 on Dec. 31, 1926. The dividend rates on the common stock has been increased from $2 to a $3 annual basis by the payment on Jan. 14, 1928, of a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share. An extra $1 was paid on Nov. 15, 1927. The company's true earnings never have shown, for it has placed millions back, all out of earnings, into expansion since its organization. Furthermore it enjoys the unique distinction of keeping out of the banks. The common stock is in high grade. The preferred is very high grade. We cannot predict the course of the year.

FARM AND GARDEN

For several years poultrymen have emphasized the value of cod liver oil in the feeding of baby chicks. Little has been said until recently about the good that comes from feeding this vitamin charged food to older chickens, particularly layers. It is now known that hens lay more eggs during the winter if they are fed cod liver oil. Eggs from cod liver oil fed hens have a shell with a finer texture.
